Pioneer Natural Resources Company

Answers to Potential Questions Regarding Proposals to Amend 2006 Long-Term Incentive Plan (the "2006 Plan")

Why does the Company maintain a stock incentive plan?

Pioneer's executive compensation program emphasizes variable, performance-based pay, and equity awards are critical in executing this philosophy.

- Long-term incentive awards are used to link Company performance and increases in stockholder value to the total compensation for the Company's executives.
- The annualized value of the long-term incentive awards is intended to be the largest component of an executive's overall compensation package—in fact, in 2008, long-term incentive awards accounted for approximately 60% of total compensation of the Company's executive officers.
- Through these awards, the level of attainable compensation earned by the executives largely relies on Company performance after the grant date.
- Equity compensation effectively aligns the interests of the executives with those of the Company's stockholders, providing incentive to the executives to focus on the long-term success of the Company.
- These awards are also key components of the Company's ability to attract, motivate and retain the Company's key employees.

Why does the Company need more shares?

The 2006 Plan was adopted in 2006, and the Company has funded approximately three years of broad-based annual grants to substantially all of the Company's employees. The Company has also utilized additional grants under the 2006 Plan as an important retention tool for the Company's non-officer engineers, geologists and landmen.

Because the grants are meant to represent a portion of total compensation, they are denominated in dollars and the number of shares underlying the awards fluctuates based on the stock price. When prices are higher, fewer shares are granted; in the current market environment, however, lower stock prices mean that more shares are required to satisfy the dollar-based grant requirements.

The following examples illustrate the impact of (i) the choice of equity awards and (ii) the deemed value of the stock at the time of the award, on the number of shares required to be reserved to fund the award. The values used are for illustration only—the actual stock value is determined by the Company’s Compensation Committee at the time of the award:

EXAMPLE 1: $100,000.00 award using all restricted stock, with a deemed value (for purposes of the award) of $40.00:

Type of Award	Number of Awards	Shares Required to be Reserved for Potential Issuance
Restricted Stock	2,500	2,500
Total Shares Reserved: 2,500

EXAMPLE 2: $100,000.00 award using a combination of restricted stock, stock options and performance units in the same proportion as the Company’s 2009 awards to its executive officers, with a deemed value (for purposes of the award) of $20.00:

Type of Award	Number of Awards	Shares Required to be Reserved for Potential Issuance
Restricted Stock	3,023	3,023
Stock Options	2,883	2,883
Performance Units (at target)	1,511	3,778 (Company must reserve 250% of target until performance period ends)
Total Shares Reserved: 9,684

Finally, a portion of the Company’s executive grants are represented by performance units, whose payouts are tied to the relative performance of the Company’s stock price versus its peer group. The Company must reserve against the 2006 Plan’s shares the full 250% of target shares that could potentially be paid over the three-year life of the awards, even when relative stock price performance suggests that a much lower actual payout is probable.

The table below describes the range of shares that could be potentially paid to current holders of performance units. The maximum number must be reserved for issuance until the end of the performance period.

Performance Period	Range of Potential Share Issuances
January 1, 2007 to December 31, 2009	0-330,273
January 1, 2008 to December 31, 2010	0-395,198
January 1, 2009 to December 31, 2011	0-473,118

Is the request excessive?

No. The Company believes that the increase would give it the flexibility to continue to make stock-based grants over the next three years in amounts determined appropriate by the Compensation Committee (in consultation with its outside compensation consultant).

The potential 2006 Plan dilution—the number of shares available for grant plus unvested awards at target, divided by total shares outstanding, is ~3.6%. If the amendment is approved, the potential dilution would increase to ~7.5%.

Another measure of dilution—three-year average burn rate through 2008—was 1.14%, using the RiskMetrics methodology. The rate for 2009 would be somewhat higher, based on the greater number of awards resulting from the lower stock price.

What happens if the amendment is not approved?

If the amendment is not approved, the 2006 Plan will not be amended. The Company's Compensation Committee will evaluate whether to issue plan awards that are settled in cash, rather than stock, or to replace some or all of the equity portion of compensation with additional cash payments.

In any case, an important part of the Company's compensation philosophy will be frustrated.

Other:

Southeastern Asset Management, Inc, the Company's largest stockholder, has agreed to vote FOR the approval of the amendment.

- 2006 Plan was originally established in 2006, and is intended in part to qualify for exemption from the deduction limitations of Section 162(m)
- Regulations under Section 162(m) require that the material terms of the 2006 Plan be periodically disclosed to and approved by the Company's stockholders.
- Tax code requires that there be a limit on the awards that can be granted to an individual in any 12-month period, which is currently either 250,000 shares or $4 million. Includes an amendment to increase the maximum number of shares of common stock that may be granted to an individual in any 12-month period from 250,000 shares to 400,000 shares but does not change the dollar value limit. This reflects the impact of a lower stock price on dollar-denominated awards.
