higher legal costs totaling $130,000, related to three cases, two of which, the Company is the plaintiff and one in which, it is the defendant. The high legal fees were largely attributable to the arbitration proceeding held in the first quarter 2004, involving a matter described in the Company's Form 10-KSB for the year ended in 2003. The decision by the arbitrator is expected during the next few weeks.

Sentaur the Company's medical claim audit and recovery services to hospitals and physician groups, generated $185,000 in revenue in the first quarter 2004. Sentaur was established to help hospitals by subrogating against health insurance companies and preferred provider organizations (PPOs) that have inappropriately taken discounts to which they were not entitled in paying hospital bills for insured patients. Sentaur analyzes client hospitals' billing records to uncover such inappropriate discounts and receives a share of any funds recovered.

The transaction is subject to satisfaction of due diligence, shareholder approval and certain other additional conditions.
