Sasol's Chemical Businesses

When Sasol Limited (Sasol) released its financial results for the year ended 30 June 2003, reference was made to the possibility of some disposals being considered and to various productivity improvement initiatives being accelerated in its chemicals portfolio.

Sasol is committed to its core chemical activities that have been acquired or expanded in recent years.

A recent strategy review within Sasol Olefins and Surfactants has, however, contributed to Sasol concluding that there is limited market overlap and therefore business synergy between its core businesses and the activities of Sasol Servo BV in The Netherlands.

A number of speciality chemical companies have already expressed an interest in acquiring Sasol's shareholding in Sasol Servo BV.

Sasol has therefore decided to enter first phase discussions with a limited number of these interested parties with the intention of disposing of its equity interest in Sasol Servo. Sasol intends to complete this process with as little disruption as possible to customers, employees and other stakeholders.

With the expectation that this first phase will prove to be successful, Sasol expects to enter a second and final phase aimed at reaching a negotiated agreement for the sale of Sasol Servo BV before the end of its current financial year.
