IHG ORGANISATIONAL CHANGES TO FOCUS ON GROWTH

In its half year results announcement on 8th September 2005, InterContinental Hotels Group ("IHG") set out a new strategy to drive growth, and a new rooms growth target of 50,000 - 60,000 net new rooms by the end of 2008. IHG announces today organisational changes to enhance IHG's operational effectiveness, and best position it to achieve its growth ambitions in its managed and franchised operations from its focus on owners and guests.

Edgar Filing: INTERCONTINENTAL HOTELS GROUP PLC /NEW/ - Form 6-K

IHG will maintain its current regional organisational structure. Its three regions of the Americas, EMEA and Asia Pacific will continue to operate under the control of Stevan Porter, Richard Hartman and Patrick Imbardelli respectively. Going forward, there will be more consistent processes and standards across the three regions, to reflect the growing globalisation of IHG's owners and guests, and an increased level of support from central functions.

Andrew Cosslett, Chief Executive, InterContinental Hotels Group, said:

"These changes to the organisation follow on from our stated strategy to become the number one choice for hotel owners and guests worldwide. As our business model becomes more aligned globally on managing and franchising we will be working more closely together to accelerate growth. I am confident that these changes will support our strategy effectively and deliver results."

Details of organisational changes

Franchise strategy

Hotel franchising, IHG's core business model, is well developed in the US market but less developed in other areas of the world. To aid the faster global development of this business model, IHG has created the new role of Global Leader Franchise Strategy, with responsibility for the development and deployment of best practice in franchising globally.

Stevan Porter, President, the Americas will take on this newly created role, in addition to his existing responsibilities. The considerable expertise Steve has gained in developing and running a franchise network in the Americas region will help IHG as it further develops this core business model across each of its regions.

Owner relationships and finance

IHG continues to focus on further developing its relationships with owners. To assist in this initiative, Richard Solomons, in addition to retaining his existing responsibilities as Group Finance Director, will work to develop IHG's relationship management programme with major global hotel investors, particularly in the upscale arena.

Richard will also assume direct responsibility for strategy, asset management, and will continue his role as Chairman of Britvic.

IT

Class leading management and revenue systems are an essential part of the strength of IHG's operational system, which makes IHG an attractive choice for hotel owners. Maintaining the strength of these systems is a key priority, as is gaining a greater ability to interrogate and use customer data currently embedded in IHG's hotel reservation systems and Priority Club Rewards loyalty programme.

To reflect the importance placed on this function, a new position on the Executive Committee has been created, of Chief Information Officer ("CIO"). The CIO will report directly to the CEO. A search for candidates is underway.

Brands and Marketing

As IHG continues to focus on its managed and franchised business models, the strength of its brands remains a key area of focus. A new role of Chief Marketing Officer has been created to lead the development of IHG's worldwide brand priorities, create a consistent brand management process and build new mechanisms to link IHG's marketing teams around the world.

Peter Gowers will take up this new role, in addition to his existing responsibilities as Executive Vice President, Global Brand Services.

Human Resources

IHG continues to focus on developing and retaining its people. To bring greater consistency to this, regional HR teams are to be aligned globally under the Global Head of Human Resources.

IHG's current Head of Human Resources, Jim Larson, has resigned with effect from the end of this year, to pursue other professional interests in his home country of the US. It is with regret therefore that a search has been put underway for Jim's successor.

Corporate Social Responsibility

IHG maintains a strong focus on Corporate Social Responsibility.

Richard Winter, Executive Vice President Corporate Services, General Counsel and Company Secretary, will continue the development of IHG's Corporate Social Responsibility agenda.
