(Muslim Malays), who make up 60% of the population, in mind. PBTB is the first company to launch following Bank Negara's recent issuance of four new takaful licences. A total of nine licences have now been issued. In the past several years, the takaful industry has experienced far higher growth than conventional insurance, making it one of the fastest-growing segments in the local Islamic financial market.

Encik Mohamad Salihuddin Ahmad, CEO of the new joint venture (PBTB) thanked Bank Negara for the opportunity to help develop the very important takaful industry. Salihuddin said:

"From the consumers' perspective, there isn't a better time than now to consider takaful products because more takaful companies means a better choice of innovative and competitively priced products and services.

"PBTB is different from the other players. We will focus on understanding the needs of Malaysian customers and designing products to meet these needs. With many Bumiputra customers under-insured, we believe there is an opportunity to launch new family and general takaful products, including an investment-linked takaful product."

Mr Ng Keng Hooi, Managing Director, Insurance, Prudential Corporation Asia, said:

"Prudential is very pleased to launch the joint venture with BSN, one of Malaysia's best known and most respected financial institutions. With the launch of PBTB, we have a great opportunity to help Malaysia's largely under-insured Bumiputra market lead more financially secure lives.

"The joint venture is very lucky to have two very distinguished parents. Both are well-trusted brand names. Prudential brings to the partnership strong global credentials and substantial experience in insurance - almost 160 years in Europe and over 80 years in Malaysia. BSN is a well known and respected financial institution in the country. PBTB will also benefit from the international product development expertise of Prudential who are leaders in the investment-linked insurance market. In addition, we have critical illness and medical products which we believe will be very attractive to takaful customers. The new joint venture will also leverage Prudential's 7,000 strong agency force and BSN's 387 branches."

Dato' Azim Mohd Zabidi, Chairman of BSN said:

"The launch of PBTB marks another significant milestone for BSN as it reflects the bank's strong commitment towards providing a complete range of shariah-compliant financial solutions, covering Islamic Banking and takaful that is tailor-made to meet the demand of the consumers. We believe the emergence of PBTB in the Islamic financial landscape is timely. It meets the aspiration of the Government to accelerate the penetration of takaful and bring its benefits to the majority of Malaysians in urban as well as rural areas. PBTB will benefit greatly from the strengths of the two parent companies. Both are financially strong companies whose collective strengths are in agency distribution, branch network, product development and branding.

Notes to Editor:

1. Takaful

Takaful is an Islamic way of providing insurance cover. Conventional insurance cover incorporates economic elements which are deemed haram (forbidden): namely the elements of interest, uncertainty, and gambling. This concept is similar in the banking industry, prompting the introduction of Islamic banking in 1983.

The underlying concept behind takaful is a form of shared fund, formed by contributions (premiums) made by its participants. Payments are then made from the shared fund in the event of death (or other contingencies).
