PROXY STATEMENT

FOR 2005 ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

This proxy statement and the accompanying proxy card (proxy materials) are furnished to the stockholders of GIANT GROUP, LTD., a Delaware corporation (Company), in connection with the solicitation of proxies by the board of directors (Board) for use in voting at the Company s annual meeting of stockholders (Annual Meeting). The Annual Meeting will be held on , 2005 at the offices of Christensen, Miller, Fink, Jacobs, Glaser, the Weil & Shapiro, LLP, 10250 Constellation Boulevard, 19th Floor, Los Angeles, California 90067 at 9 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time. Proxy materials are first being provided to stockholders of record on or about , 2004.

The Company has designated the close of business on , 2004 as the Record Date. On this date, shares of the Company s $.01 par value Common Stock (Common Stock) were outstanding. Any holder of shares of Common Stock on the Record Date is entitled to receive notice of the Annual Meeting and may cast one vote for each share of Common Stock owned.

Proxy solicitation may be made personally or by telephone or telegram by Company officers or employees. The Company will not pay additional compensation to the individuals performing these services. The Company will reimburse brokers, banks and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries holding shares of Common Stock in their name or the stockholder s name for their reasonable and necessary expenses in sending proxy materials to stockholders of record for the purpose of obtaining the stockholders proxy.

Stockholders of record will be requested to act upon the proposals set forth in this proxy statement at the Annual Meeting. If you are not present at the Annual Meeting, your shares can be voted only when represented by proxy. The shares represented by your proxy will be voted in accordance with your directions if the proxy is properly signed, dated and returned to the Company before or at the Annual Meeting. If the proxy is properly signed and dated by the stockholder of record and no instructions are specified in the proxy with respect to any proposal, the shares represented will be voted for the approval of the amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation to effectuate the reverse stock split, for the nominees for the Board listed in this proxy statement and for the ratification of Stonefield Josephson, Inc. (Stonefield) as independent auditor for the Company.

A proxy may be revoked at any time prior to it being voted at the Annual Meeting. A stockholder of record may revoke his/her proxy at any time before we vote it at the meeting by delivering to the Company s Secretary at GIANT GROUP, LTD., 9440 Santa Monica Boulevard, Suite 407, Beverly Hills, California 90210 either another properly executed proxy dated subsequent to the first proxy voted or a written notice with the stockholder s full name, address, a statement of revocation of proxy, and the number of shares to which such revocation applies or by appearing and voting in person at the Annual Meeting. If the stockholder s shares are held in the name of his broker, the stockholder will need to follow the broker s procedure.

Edgar Filing: GIANT GROUP LTD - Form PRER14A

A majority of the outstanding shares of Common Stock, represented at the Annual Meeting in person or by proxy, will constitute a quorum. A broker non-vote or a properly executed proxy marked WITHHOLD AUTHORITY or ABSTAIN will be counted for the determination if a quorum is present. The votes of stockholders present in person or represented by proxy at the Annual Meeting will be tabulated by an inspector of election appointed by the Company.

To approve the proposal to amend the Certificate of Incorporation of the Company to effectuate a reverse stock split, the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of shares of Common Stock outstanding is required. Upon consummation of the reverse stock split, every holder of record on the date of effectiveness of the reverse stock split will receive one share of Common Stock for every 300 shares of Common Stock held immediately prior to the reverse stock split by such holder. No fractional shares will be issued in connection with the reverse stock split. Instead, the Company will pay holders of fractional shares an amount equal to $1.85 for each share of Common Stock held by such stockholder that results in fractional shares following the reverse stock split. Upon consummation of the amendment of the Certificate of Incorporation to effectuate a reverse stock split, the Company intends to terminate its registration and periodic reporting obligations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and continue future operations as a private company. The directors and officers of the Company, who collectively own a sufficient amount of the shares of Common Stock outstanding necessary to approve the proposal to amend the Certificate of Incorporation to effectuate the reverse stock split, have indicated that they intend to vote in favor of such proposal, although they have no obligations to do so. A properly executed proxy marked

ABSTAIN or a broker non-vote on the proposal to approve the amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation will have the effect of a negative vote on the proposal.

Directors will be elected by a plurality of votes properly cast at the Annual Meeting. A properly executed proxy marked WITHHOLD AUTHORITY, with respect to the election of one or more Directors, will not be counted as a vote for or against the Directors indicated, and therefore will have no effect on the outcome of the election of the Directors.

To ratify the proposal of the selection of Stonefield as independent auditor for the Company and other business that may properly come before the Meeting, the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of shares of Common Stock properly voted is required. A properly executed proxy marked ABSTAIN on the proposal to ratify the selection of Stonefield or vote on other business will have no effect on the outcome of the selection of Stonefield as independent auditor.

Broker non-votes will not be counted to determine if a proposal has been approved, and therefore will have no effect on the outcome of the election of the Directors or the selection of Stonefield.

Neither the Securities and Exchange Commission nor any state securities commission has approved or disapproved of the transactions contemplated by any of the proposals, passed upon the merits or fairness of any of such transactions or passed upon the adequacy or accuracy of the disclosure in this document. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense.

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain statements in this proxy statement, including statements preceded by, or predicated upon the words anticipates, appears, believes, expects, estimated, hopes, plans, should, would or similar words constitute forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other important factors that could cause the actual results, performance or achievements of GIANT GROUP, LTD. or industry results to differ materially from any future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied herein.

SUMMARY TERM SHEET

The following paragraphs summarize the material terms and conditions of the reverse stock split. This summary should be read in conjunction with the full text of this Proxy Statement and the annexes attached hereto. EACH STOCKHOLDER IS URGED TO READ THE ENTIRE PROXY STATEMENT AND ANNEXES WITH CARE.

The Reverse Stock Split (page [])

Upon approval of this Proposal No. 1 by the stockholders of the Company, the Company will file with the Delaware Secretary of State the Certificate of Amendment, attached hereto as Annex A, to the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (the Amendment) to effectuate a 1-for-300 reverse split of the Company's Common Stock, $0.01 par value, as unanimously approved by the Company's board of directors.

Every holder of record on the date of effectiveness of the filing of the Amendment with the Delaware Secretary of State (the Effective Date) will be entitled to receive one share of Common Stock for every 300 shares of Common Stock held by such person. No fractional shares will be issued in connection with the Reverse Split. Following the Reverse Split, the Company will pay holders of fractional shares an amount equal to $1.85 for each share of Common Stock (the Cash Consideration) held by such stockholder immediately before the Effective Date. For detailed information concerning the terms and provisions of the Reverse Split, see Special Factors and The Reverse Split.

Following the completion of the Reverse Split and the filing of a Form 15 with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the Commission), the Company's registration of its Common Stock as well as its duty to file reports with the Commission under Sections 13(a) and 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations), will terminate and the Company will no longer be a reporting company. The Company will continue operations as a non-reporting private corporation. For detailed information concerning the purpose, reasons for and effect of the Reverse Split, see Special Factors.

Reports, Opinions and Appraisals (page [])

The Company did not appoint a special committee of independent directors or obtain a fairness report, opinion, appraisal, or other independent assessment of the fairness of the terms of the Reverse Split or the value of the Company's Common Stock. In determining the price to be paid to holders of fractional shares the board of directors considered, among other things, the average trading price of the common stock for the ten day period, 30 day period and five year period prior to the announcement of the reverse stock split. For additional information concerning the appointment of a special committee or outside appraisal, see Special Factors Reports, Opinions and Appraisals, and Special Factors Factors Considered by the board of directors as to the Fairness of the Reverse Split Factors Disfavoring the Reverse Split.

Determination of the Board of Directors (page [])

After careful consideration of several factors relating to the fairness of the Reverse Split, the Cash Consideration to be paid to stockholders for fractional shares resulting from the Reverse Split, and the benefits and consequences of the Reverse Split, the board of directors determined that the Reverse Split is substantively and procedurally fair to, and in the best interests of, the Company's unaffiliated stockholders, whether they are cashed out and/or remain as stockholders of the Company. For additional information concerning the board of director's approval of the Reverse Split, see Special Factors Reasons for the Reverse Split, Special Factors Factors Considered by the Board of Directors as to the Fairness of the Reverse Split; and Special Factors Position of the Company Regarding the Fairness of the Reverse Split.

Reservation of Right to Abandon the Reverse Split (page [])

Our board of directors has retained the right to abandon the Reverse Split, even though approved, if it determines prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split that the Reverse Split is not then in the Company's best interest or the best interest of the Company's stockholders. Among the circumstances the board may consider in reaching a decision to abandon the Reverse Split is if the transaction becomes too expensive or there is a risk that it will not result in a reduction in the number of record holders to fewer than 300. For additional information concerning the board of director's right to abandon the Reverse Split, see Special Factors Reservation of Right to Abandon the Reverse Split.

Stockholder Approval

Under Delaware law, the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of the Company's Common Stock is required to effect the Reverse Split. Burt Sugarman, the President, Chief Executive Officer, and Chairman of the Board of the Company beneficially owns, as of October 26, 2004, approximately 63.9% of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company (including shares beneficially owned by his wife). Other members of the board of directors and executive officers beneficially own approximately 5% of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company as of such date (excluding options to purchase common stock). The Board of Directors, including Mr. Sugarman, has unanimously approved the effectuation of the Reverse Split. In addition, the directors and officers, including Mr. Sugarman, who collectively own a sufficient amount of the outstanding shares of Common Stock to approve the Reverse Split, have indicated that they intend to vote in favor of approving the Reverse Split, although they have no obligation to do so. The Reverse Split has not been structured to require the approval of a majority of unaffiliated stockholders.

Our board of directors has fixed the close of business on _____, 2004 as the record date for determining which stockholders would be entitled to notice of and to vote at the Annual Meeting. On this date, _____ shares of the Company's Common Stock were outstanding.

Source of Funds for the Reverse Stock Split (page [])

The Company plans to finance the Reverse Split with its available cash and cash equivalents and through cash obtained from the sale of one or more of the Company's lots of real property and/or borrowings from the Company's existing credit facility. For more information, see The Reverse Split Source of Funds and Financial Effect of the Reverse Split. The Company's cash and cash equivalents, as of September 30, 2004, were approximately $246,000. The Company expects to use all of these funds to pay a portion of the cash consideration for any fractional shares and the other expenses incurred in connection with the reverse stock split. The remainder of funding for the reverse stock split will be derived from cash from the sale of one or more of its real property lots and/or from available borrowings. As of December 10, 2004, $2.7 million was available for borrowing under the Company's credit facility.

Price Range of Common Stock

The Company's Common Stock is traded over-the-counter through the NASD OTC Bulletin Board under the symbol GPOL.OB. On September 8, 2004, the last trading price for the Company's Common Stock prior to the announcement of the reverse stock split was $1.55. The Cash Consideration represents a premium of 19.4% over the closing trading price of the common stock on September 8, 2004, a premium of 21.7% over the average closing trading price of the common stock over the ten days prior to the announcement of the Reverse Split and a premium of 37.0% over the average closing trading price over the last five years prior to the announcement of the Reverse Split. For price ranges of the Company's Common Stock, see Market for the Company's Common Stock and Dividend Policy.

Material Federal Income Tax Consequences (page [1])

The Company believes the Reverse Split will be treated as a tax-free recapitalization for federal income tax purposes, which will result in no material federal income tax consequences to the Company. Depending on each stockholder's individual situation, the Reverse Split may give rise to certain income tax consequences for such stockholder. For additional information concerning the potential federal income tax consequences of the Reverse Split, see Special Factors Certain Material Federal Income Tax Consequences.

PROPOSAL NO. 1: AMENDMENT TO THE CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

Stockholders are being asked to approve an amendment to the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (the Certificate of Incorporation) to effectuate a 1-for-300 reverse stock split (the Reverse Split). The purpose of the Reverse Split is to reduce the number of stockholders below 300, thereby allowing the Company to terminate its registration and periodic reporting obligations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and continue future operations as a private company, and thus relieving the Company of the costs, administrative burdens and competitive disadvantages associated with operating as a public company. If the amendment is approved, each 300 shares of common stock held by a stockholder will be converted into one share. Fractional shares will be converted into cash based on a value of $1.85 per pre-split share. As of November 5, 2004, the Company had approximately 1,417 stockholders of record holding approximately an aggregate of 3.349 million outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company. In the event that Proposal No. 1 is approved by the stockholders, following the reverse stock split the Company anticipates that it will have approximately 77 stockholders of record holding an aggregate of approximately 3.000 million outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company. The board of directors adopted resolutions on September 9, 2004 setting forth (i) the proposed amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation of the Company for the Reverse Split, (ii) the advisability of the amendment, (iii) determination that the Reverse Split is advisable, in the best interests of, and substantively and procedurally fair to, the Company's unaffiliated stockholders, whether they are cashed out and/or remain as stockholders of the Company and (iv) a call for submission of the amendment for approval by the Company's stockholders at the Annual Meeting. Upon approval of the proposed amendment by the stockholders, the proposed amendment will become effective only upon filing of the Certificate of Amendment of the Certificate of Incorporation with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware. The Board of Directors may elect to abandon the reverse stock split at any time prior to the filing of the Certificate of Amendment of the Certificate of Incorporation with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware.

THE BOARD RECOMMENDS A VOTE FOR THE APPROVAL OF THE AMENDMENT TO THE COMPANY'S CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION TO EFFECTUATE A 1-FOR-300 REVERSE STOCK SPLIT

SPECIAL FACTORS

Purpose of the Reverse Split

The purpose of the Reverse Split is to terminate the Company's registration and periodic reporting obligations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and continue future operations as a private company, thereby relieving the Company of the costs, administrative burdens and competitive disadvantages associated with operating as a public company. The Company intends to accomplish this purpose by reducing the number of holders of record of the Company's Common Stock to fewer than 300 by cashing out the fractional shares that result from the Reverse Split.

Background of the Reverse Split; Alternatives Considered by the Board

Since its original incorporation in 1913, the Company, including its predecessor entities, has operated or invested in various industries, including cement, fast food, clothing and real estate.

From 1985 through October 1994, the Company's major operating subsidiaries were Giant Cement Company and Keystone Cement Company (KCC), which manufactured portland and masonry cements sold to ready-mix concrete plants, concrete product manufacturers, building material dealers, construction contractors and state and local government agencies. From 1987 through October 1994, the Company also owned Giant Resource Recovery Company, Inc., which was a marketing agent for resource recovery services for Giant Cement. On October 6, 1994, KCC sold 100% of the stock of its wholly owned subsidiary, Giant Cement Holding, Inc., through an initial public offering. As a result of the transaction, the Company became fully divested of its cement and resource recovery operations.

Beginning in 1987, the Company, through its equity investment in Checkers, including its predecessor entity, Rally's, has had ownership interest in fast-food restaurants and comprehensive system for developing and operating double drive-thru restaurants, which includes trademarks, building designs and layouts, equipment, ingredients, recipes and specifications for authorized food products, methods of inventory control and certain operational and business standards.

Through GIANT MARINE GROUP, LTD. (GIANT MARINE), a subsidiary of the Company, the Company started and operated a luxury yacht co-ownership program (the Co-Ownership Program) with two yachts until November 17, 1997, when the Co-Ownership Program was ended. During 1998, GIANT MARINE chartered its two yachts until they were both sold. On December 28, 1998, GIANT MARINE was dissolved and the remaining assets and liabilities were transferred to the Company.

On December 11, 1998, the Company acquired 100% of the outstanding common stock of Periscope Sportswear, Inc. (Periscope), a manufacturer of women's and children's clothing. Periscope was organized under the laws of the State of Delaware in 1998 and was the successor, by merger, to Periscope I Sportswear, Inc., a New York corporation organized in 1975. Periscope designed, sourced and marketed an extensive line of high quality, moderate priced, women's and children's clothing to mass merchandisers and major retailers, primarily for sale under private labels. On September 25, 2000, the Company's board of directors approved a plan for the disposition of Periscope, its women's and children's apparel operation, following months of being in default under its factoring agreement. On October 31, 2000, Periscope executed and delivered a letter delivering peaceful possession of its assets to Century Business Credit Corporation (Century) reducing amounts owed to Century. On October 31, 2000, simultaneously with the completion of the aforementioned transaction, Century licensed certain Periscope trademarks in connection with the manufacture and sale of Periscope products to Alarmex Holdings, L.L.C. On November 30, 2000, Periscope filed a Voluntary Petition under Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York.

Following the Company's write-off of its investment in Periscope in April 2000, the NYSE notified the Company that trading of its Common Stock would be suspended on April 25, 2000. On April 27, 2000, the Company's Common Stock commenced trading on the OTC Bulletin Board under symbol GPOL.OB.

From October 2000 through May 2004, the Company devoted considerable efforts to acquire an operating business. However, due to a low market price of the Company's Common Stock, the Company was not able to raise more than an insignificant amount of capital through a sale of equity without causing the Company to lose the benefit of more than $40 million of tax loss carry-forwards. The use of these tax loss carry forwards would have been severely limited if the Company were acquired. As a result, the Company was not able to acquire an operating business until May 2004. In May 2004, the Company began acquiring lots in the Yellowstone area of Montana for resale. The Company acquired the lots by paying cash and exchanging a portion of its investment in common stock of Checkers. The lots are now available for sale by the Company. The Company expects that it will purchase additional parcels of real property with all or a portion of the proceeds received from the sale of its existing parcels of real property. As of December 7, 2004, the Company owned 322,478 shares of Checkers common stock representing approximately 3% of the total outstanding shares as reported in Checkers' quarterly report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal quarter ended September 6, 2004.

On April 20, 2001, the Company announced its offer to purchase any and all outstanding shares of its Common Stock for $.50 per share (Tender Offer). The Company intended to deregister its Common Stock under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and become a private company if the number of stockholders numbered less than 300 after the Tender Offer was completed. At that time, the Company did not have any revenue generating operating units and the trading volume of the Company's Common Stock was minimal. The expiration date of the Tender Offer, extended twice, was May 29, 2001. Approximately 484,000 shares of Common Stock were purchased and the remaining number of stockholders continued to exceed 300. The Company continued to remain a public company after the Tender Offer. The Company believes that the tender offer was not successful in reducing the number of stockholders below 300 because of the unusually large number of stockholders who hold an insignificant number of shares. For example, more than 200 stockholders own less than five shares and approximately 1,340 stockholders own fewer than 250 shares. The Company believes that many stockholders determined that the effort required to accept the Tender Offer did not justify the small monetary return. For example, more than 200 stockholders would have had to review and complete lengthy tender offer documents and send in their stock certificates in order to receive a check in the amount of $2.50.

Faced by a continuing lack of interest from public sector investors and the need for additional working capital, the Company determined that maintaining the Company's public status came at a significant cost to the Company with no significant benefit and that terminating the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations would result in significant cost savings and better competitive positioning as well as help to maximize stockholder value. In order to apply to terminate the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations, the Company would have to reduce the number of record holders of the Company's Common Stock to fewer than 300. Following the acquisition of the real property in Montana by the Company in May 2004, Mr. Sugarman requested that the Company's legal counsel present to the board of directors alternative transaction structures that would cause the Company to have fewer than 300 stockholders. If the Company had not acquired the real property, the Company would have seriously explored liquidating the Company.

On September 7, 2004, the board of directors held a special meeting during which the Company's legal counsel described the procedures for a tender offer and a reverse stock split. The board did not discuss other alternatives. It was determined that the Reverse Split would be the best means of reducing the number of record holders below 300. In reaching this determination, the board discussed the fact that, with a tender offer, a large number of stockholders would be required to take action in order to receive a relatively small payment. In light of the result from the Company's prior Tender Offer, the board did not believe that a sufficient number of stockholders would respond to a subsequent tender offer.

The directors then discussed an appropriate price to be paid for fractional shares. Each of the directors stated that the price should be no less than the average trading price of the Company's Common Stock over the prior 30-day period. After extensive discussion, Jeffrey Rosenthal then made a motion to pay $1.85 per share for fractional shares following the Reverse Split. The full board of directors then unanimously approved a 1-for-300 reverse split of the Company's Common Stock with fractional shares receiving $1.85 per share. The selected split ratio was a result of calculations intended to determine how many shares needed to be cashed-out to achieve the Company's goal of going private.

Reasons for the Reverse Split

Cost-Savings

We incur direct and indirect costs associated with the Company's status as a public-reporting company. Among the most significant are the costs associated with compliance with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations imposed by the Commission. Direct costs associated with compliance with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations include, but are not limited to:

auditing fees,

legal fees,

financial printer fees and

miscellaneous clerical and other administrative expenses, such as word processing, conversion to EDGAR, telephone and fax charges associated with the filing of periodic reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Based on the Company's experience in prior years, the Company's direct costs of complying with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations are estimated to be approximate $146,000 annually, based on estimated annual audit and accounting fees of $65,000, estimated annual legal fees of $20,000, estimated financial printer fees of $8,000, estimated transfer agent fees of $12,000, estimated costs associated with filing reports with the Commission (including internal administrative staff) of $30,000 and estimated miscellaneous costs of $11,000. As a comparison, the Company estimates that the fees payable in connection with the reverse stock split will be approximately $60,000, excluding the $646,000 the Company estimates will be payable for fractional shares resulting from the Reverse Split. The Company did not compare such cash payment for fractional shares with the costs of complying with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations since the cash payment (including the premium such cash payment represents over the current trading price) will be made directly to the Company's stockholders holding fractional shares after the Reverse Split and will result in each share (on a pre-Reverse Split basis) held by remaining stockholders representing a greater ownership interest following the Reverse Split and the cancellation of resulting fractional shares. Indirect costs associated with compliance with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations include, among other things, and the time the Company's executive officers expend to prepare and review the Company's periodic reports, which the Company estimates requires 15% of the total time the executive officers expend in the management of the Company. Because the Company has only a few executive personnel, these indirect costs are substantial. Due to additional regulations and compliance procedures required of public companies under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, the Company expects that the direct and indirect costs identified above will only increase in the future.

The cost of administering each registered stockholder's account is the same regardless of the number of shares held in that account. As of November 5, 2004, the Company's Common Stock was held of record by approximately 1,417 stockholders and approximately 1,340 stockholders of record held fewer than 300 shares, representing approximately 94.6% of the total number of holders of record of the Company's Common Stock. These accounts holding fewer than 300 shares represent less than 5% of the total number of outstanding shares of the Company's Common Stock. Assuming that the Reverse Split does not occur, in 2005, the estimated cost for each stockholder account, will be approximately $61 for transfer agent and other administrative fees, printing and postage costs to mail proxy materials and the annual and periodic reports required to be distributed to stockholders under the Exchange Act. Assuming the Reverse Split is successful, the Company will save an estimated $146,000 per year including savings in transfer agent and other administrative fees, printing and postage costs to mail proxy materials and the annual and periodic reports required to be distributed to stockholders under the Exchange Act, plus such indirect costs, such as management's time and resources currently dedicated to compliance with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations.

The board of directors considered the cost to the Company of continuing to file periodic reports with the SEC and complying with the proxy and annual report requirements under the Exchange Act compared to the benefits to the Company and its stockholders of continuing to operate as a public company. Under the circumstances, the board determined that the benefits that the Company and its stockholders would typically expect to derive from the Company's status as a public company are not being realized and are not likely to be realized in the foreseeable future. As a result, the board of directors concluded that the elimination of the costs of complying with the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations outweighed the benefits of continuing to incur such costs. The Company is, therefore, undertaking the Reverse Split at this time to save the Company the substantial costs, which are only expected to increase over time, and resources required to comply with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations and other obligations associated with operating as a public-reporting company. However, the actual savings to be realized from terminating the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations may be higher or lower than such estimates.

Lack of Capital from Public Sector

The Company has been unable to take advantage of the capital available through the public markets due to a historically low stock price. The Company has approximately $47 million of federal net operating loss carry-forwards and approximately $7 million of state net operating loss carry-forwards which would be lost if the Company were to issue a significant amount of stock. Further, the Company's board of directors does not have any present intent to raise capital through sales of the Company's securities in a public offering or to acquire other business entities using the Company's Common Stock as the consideration for such acquisition. Accordingly, the Company has not and is not likely to make use of, or benefit from, the advantages generally associated with operating as a public company.

Competitive Disadvantage

As a public company with Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations, the Company must publicly report and disclose material information about the Company. Such public disclosures can place the Company at a competitive disadvantage by providing the Company's competitors with strategic information about the Company's business, operations and results while not having access to similar information about these competitors. In addition, disclosure of the information will provide potential purchasers of the lots with information that could give them an advantage over the Company.

For each of the reasons set forth above, the Company's board of directors does not believe the costs associated with maintaining the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations and maintaining the Company's stockholder accounts with less than 300 shares are justified. The Company's board of directors believes that it is in the Company's best interest and the best interest of the Company's stockholders as a whole to eliminate the administrative burden and costs associated with maintaining the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations and maintaining stockholder accounts of fewer than 300 shares.

Factors Considered by the Board of Directors as to the Fairness of the Reverse Split

The board of directors, including Mr. Sugarman as a principal stockholder and a director of the Company, has analyzed the Reverse Split and its anticipated effects on the Company's stockholders, and all of the members of the Company's board of directors deemed the Reverse Split and related termination of the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations to be substantively and procedurally fair to, and in the best interests of, the Company's affiliated and unaffiliated stockholders, whether they are cashed out and/or remain as stockholders following the Reverse Split. Mr. Sugarman, in his capacity as both a principal stockholder and a director of the Company, has adopted each of the analysis of the board of directors set forth in this section Factors Considered by the Board of Directors as to the Fairness of the Reverse Split. In reaching this conclusion, the board of directors considered, in no particular order and without preference, the following factors:

Substantive Factors Favoring the Reverse Split

The Reverse Split offers stockholders the opportunity to dispose of their holdings at a premium above current market prices and average historic market price without brokerage commissions. The board of directors considered the historical average trading prices and current trading price of the Company's Common Stock to determine the $1.85 price per share (immediately prior to the Reverse Split) to pay to stockholders who will have fractional shares of the Company's Common Stock as a result of the Reverse Split and will, therefore, receive cash in lieu of fractional shares following the Reverse Split. On September 8, 2004, the last day on which shares of the Company's Common Stock traded prior to the public announcement of the Reverse Split, the closing trading prices for the Company's Common Stock was $1.55. The price to be paid to holders of fractional shares represents a 19.4% premium over the closing trading price on September 8, 2004, a 21.7% premium over the average closing trading price over the last 30 days and a 37.0% premium over the average closing trading price over the last five years. The board of directors noted that, during the first and second quarter of 2004, the high trading price for the Company's Common Stock was $3.00. However, the board of directors also noted that the $3.00 share price was the result of unusual trading activity by one former stockholder. In March 2004, Kellogg Capital Group, LLC informed the Company that it had acquired approximately 12% of the outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company, including at the price of $3.00 per share. After the Company publicly announced that it had acquired the lots in Montana and had determined to commence a real estate operating business, Kellogg Capital Group, LLC offered to sell the shares of Common Stock of the Company that it had acquired, and the Company repurchased all 350,000 shares of the Company's Common Stock owned by Kellogg Capital Group, LLC on August 19, 2004 for 60,226 shares of Common Stock of Checkers, at a per share of Common Stock of the Company equal to approximately $1.80. Because the board believed that the per share price of the Company's Common Stock reached $3.00 due to the unusual trading activity described above and because the board noted that the shares purchased by Kellogg Capital Group, LLC at the price of $3.00 were subsequently sold to the Company for a per share price lower than the consideration offered for the fractional shares, the board of directors determined that the high price for the Company's Common Stock during the first and second quarter of 2004 was not a fair indication of the fair value of the Company's Common Stock at the time the board of directors approved the Reverse Split.

The foregoing valuation method also allows the Company's stockholders the opportunity to immediately receive the anticipated benefit of selling all or a portion of their investment in the Company. The price per share is made even more fair by the fact that the Company is committed to paying any reasonable transaction fee that is imposed on the Company's stockholders by a bank, brokerage firm or other nominee, such as brokerage commissions and service charges, as a result of the Reverse Split.

The board of directors did not consider at length the book value ($3.22 per share on a fully diluted basis as of September 30, 2004) or liquidation value ($2.31 per share on a fully diluted basis as of September 30, 2004) of the Company in determining the cash consideration for fractional shares. The directors believed that such values were not a fair indications of the value of the Company. Neither the book value nor the liquidation value would consider the significant transactional expenses, including the depression of the stock price of Checkers common stock resulting from the selling pressures of such substantial sale by the Company or the high transactional fees and expenses associated with the sale of real estate, that would result in the actual value realized from the sale or liquidation of all of the assets of the Company being significantly lower than the book value or the liquidation value. In addition, because neither the book value nor the liquidation value takes into consideration the time it would take to sell the Company's holding of undeveloped recreational real property in a limited market, and the fluctuations and variables in such a market during such time period that would affect the book value and liquidation value, the board of directors determined that neither the liquidation value nor the book value would necessarily be an accurate indication of the fair consideration to be paid for fractional shares resulting from the Reverse Split. Furthermore, the Company did not consider the going concern value of the Company since the Company only recently began an operating business through the purchase of real property lots in Montana, all of which the Company has subsequently listed with a broker for sale. Although the Company expects it will purchase additional parcels of real properties with all or a portion of the proceeds received from the sale of its existing parcels of real property, because of the lack of material operating history by the Company in its current business and because of its limited resources and purchase leverage that would make any financial projections of the Company extremely susceptible to the variables in the real estate market, the board of directors determined that calculating reasonable projections necessary to determine a reasonably accurate going concern value of the Company would not be practical. Therefore, the board of directors determined that the going concern value of the Company was not material, or even practical to obtain, in connection with determining the fair value of the fractional shares. In addition, other than with respect to the repurchase of 350,000 shares of the Company's common stock described above and with respect to exercise of vested options by Mr. Sugarman, neither the Company nor Mr. Sugarman purchased shares of the Company's common stock during the past two years. Therefore, the board of directors did not consider any purchases of shares of Common Stock by either the Company, other than such repurchase of 350,000 shares from Kellogg Capital Group, LLC described above, or by Mr. Sugarman during the past two years in determining the consideration to be paid for the fractional shares. Furthermore, neither the board of directors nor Mr. Sugarman obtained a fairness opinion, appraisal or other independent assessment in connection with determining the cash consideration to be paid for fractional shares. Therefore, the board of directors did not consider any opinion, appraisal, or other independent assessment in connection with determining the cash consideration to be paid for fractional shares. Finally, the Company has not received during the past two years any firm offers for any merger, consolidation, sale or transfer of all or any substantial part of the assets of the Company, or purchase that would enable the purchaser to exercise control of the Company. Therefore, the board of directors did not consider any firm offers for any such acquisition.

The Reverse Split ratio is fair and equitable to unaffiliated stockholders. The purpose of the Reverse Split is to reduce the number of record holders to fewer than 300 so that the Company can file to terminate its Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations and continue future operations as a private company. The split ratio is a result of calculations that were intended to determine how many shares needed to be eliminated, or "cashed-out," to reduce the number of record holders to fewer than 300. The board of directors feels the current ratio of 1-for-300 is fair because it was calculated without bias towards any one group of stockholders. The ratio will be applied equally to all shares of the Company's Common Stock. It should, however, be noted that, as a result of cancellation of the fractional shares, the affiliated stockholders will increase their ownership interest in the Company as a result of the Reverse Split. See "Procedural Factors Disfavoring the Reverse Split and Interests of the Company's Directors and Executive Officers in the Reverse Split. As a result of the Reverse Split, the stockholders who own more than 300 shares, such as the Company's executive officers and directors, will increase their percentage ownership interest in the Company as a result of the Reverse Split. However, the board of the directors noted that, because the affiliated stockholders currently own a dominant majority of ownership interest in the Company and, therefore, have complete control of the Company, any increase in ownership percentage by the affiliated stockholders resulting from the Reverse Split will not have a material impact on the ability of affiliated stockholders to control the Company or the inability of the unaffiliated stockholders to control the Company after the Reverse Split. Therefore, the board of directors determined that the fact that the per share consideration to be paid in the Reverse Split will be the same for every stockholder was a more material factor than any further increase in the already dominant majority ownership of the Company by the affiliated stockholders.

Procedural Factors Favoring the Reverse Split

The Reverse Split provides the Company's stockholders with liquidity. The average daily trading volume for the Company's Common Stock over the last three months was approximately 725 shares, deeming it illiquid by most standards. The Reverse Split will provide stockholders who hold fewer than 300 shares at the Effective Time of the Reverse Split the opportunity to liquidate their investment in the Company. Under normal circumstances and based on the high trading price per share throughout 2004, stockholders with fewer than 300 shares wanting to sell their Common Stock would likely incur transaction fees that are disproportionately high relative to the market value of their holding of the Company's Common Stock. The Reverse Split will eliminate this problem for such stockholders because the Company will pay any reasonable transaction fees that are imposed on the Company's stockholders by a bank, brokerage firm or other nominee, such as brokerage commissions and service charges, as a result of the Reverse Split.

The Reverse Split includes the ability to remain a stockholder of the Company. Another factor considered by the Company's board of directors in determining the procedural fairness of the transaction to unaffiliated stockholders is that current holders of fewer than 300 shares of the Company's Common Stock may elect to remain stockholders of the Company by acquiring sufficient shares so that they hold at least 300 shares in their account immediately prior to the Reverse Split. However, see Procedural Factors Disfavoring the Reverse Split and Interests of the Company's Directors and Executive Officers in the Reverse Split. As a result of the Reverse Split, the stockholders who own more than 300 shares, such as the Company's executive officers and directors, will increase their percentage ownership interest in the Company as a result of the Reverse Split. The Company's board of directors considers the structure of the Reverse Split to be fair to all stockholders because it allows them to control the decision of whether to remain a stockholder of the Company following the Reverse Split or to receive the Cash Consideration offered in connection with the Reverse Split. In light of the fact that the $1.85 price per share represents a premium over the recent trading price, stockholders who believe that the recent trading price does not represent the fair value of their shares, despite the fact that such shares will not be afforded public sale opportunities after the Reverse Split, may purchase such shares at the trading price lower than the per share price to be paid by the Company in the Reverse Split for those same shares, and stockholders who believe that the trading price represents the fair value of their shares may realize a premium over such trading price in the Reverse Split.

The board of directors noted that the unaffiliated stockholders who elect to purchase sufficient shares to remain stockholders of the Company will have no public market in which to subsequently sell their shares of Common Stock of the Company after the Reverse Split. However, the board of directors also noted that, despite a public market for the shares of common stock of the Company, the lack of interest in the Company's Common Stock in the public market, the proportionally high transaction fees in comparison to the value of each share of Common Stock, and the fact that only approximately 12% of the shares of the Company's outstanding Common Stock have been traded over the past 12 months have caused the shares of Common Stock of the Company to be highly illiquid despite the existence of a public market. Therefore, the board of directors determined that the loss of a public market for the Company's Common Stock resulting from the Reverse Split would not materially impact the liquidity of the shares of Common Stock of the Company for unaffiliated stockholders who elect to remain stockholders of the Company since the lack of interest in the Company's Common Stock has caused the shares of Common Stock of the Company to be effectively illiquid despite the current existence of a public market. In addition, the board of directors noted that the unaffiliated stockholders who elect to purchase sufficient shares to remain stockholders of the Company will own a small percentage of the Company in comparison to the dominant majority of ownership interest in the Company by the affiliated stockholders after the Reverse Split. However, the board of the directors also noted that, because the affiliated stockholders currently own a dominant majority of ownership interest in the Company and, therefore, have complete control of the Company, any increase in ownership percentage by the affiliated stockholders resulting from the Reverse Split will not have a material impact on the ability of affiliated stockholders to control the Company or the inability of the unaffiliated stockholders to control the Company after the Reverse Split. Finally, the board of directors noted that the unaffiliated stockholders who elect to purchase sufficient shares to remain stockholders of the Company will have no guarantee of dividends in the future. However, the board of directors also noted that the Company has not paid dividends during the past five fiscal years and that the stockholders would have no guarantee of dividend payments even if the Company elected not to consummate the Reverse Split. Therefore, the board of directors determined that, because the adverse effect on the liquidity of the Company's common stock and minority position of unaffiliated stockholders will not be material, providing the opportunity for stockholders to remain stockholders after the Reverse Split was a procedural factor favoring the Reverse Split. Furthermore, since the lack of interest in the Company's Common Stock would make it more difficult for stockholders to sell their shares, providing for stockholders who own less than 300 shares to completely liquidate their ownership interest at a premium and without incurring transaction fees was a procedural factor favoring the Reverse Split since such stockholders who elect not to remain stockholders after the Reverse Split would have had limited opportunity to liquidate their shares in the present public market for the Company's Common Stock due to the high transaction fees, lack of interest in the Company's Common Stock, small ownership interest and low stock price.

No Unusual Conditions to the Reverse Split. The board also considered the likelihood that the Reverse Split would be implemented. In this regard it took into consideration that there are no unusual requirements or conditions to the Reverse Split, and the fact that the Company has the financial resources to implement the Reverse Split expeditiously.

Substantive Factors Disfavoring the Reverse Split

Cessation of Public Sale Opportunities. Following the Reverse Split, the Company will apply for the termination of its Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations. As a result, stockholders may no longer have the alternative of selling their shares of the Company's Common Stock on the public market, and there may be no effective trading market for the Company's Common Stock. Any stockholder desiring to sell his or her shares may have a difficult time finding a buyer. Such illiquidity may reduce the price a buyer is willing to pay for such shares. Furthermore, for stockholders who will hold fractional shares as a result of the Reverse Split will not be able to determine the time and price at which those shares resulting in fractional shares will be sold. The Company anticipates that the public market for shares of the Company's Common Stock will be substantially reduced or eliminated altogether. Additionally, the Company does not have any present intention or plans to sell the Company or enter into any other transaction that would provide liquidity for the shares. However, the Company may explore from time to time various methods to provide liquidity to those stockholders desiring to sell their shares.

However, because only approximately 12% of the shares of the Company's outstanding Common Stock have been traded over the past 12 months, the current public market is highly illiquid. Because as a practical matter there currently exists very little liquidity for the Company's Common Stock, the Company's board of directors believes any further losses of liquidity will have little effect on unaffiliated stockholders and will be outweighed by the benefits of terminating the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations.

Cessation of Publicly Available Information. Upon terminating the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations, the Company will no longer file, among other things, annual or quarterly reports with the Commission. Information regarding the Company's business, results of operations and financial condition that is currently available to the general public and the Company's investors will not be available once the Company terminates the registration of the Company's securities and the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations. As a result of termination of the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations, the remaining stockholders after the Reverse Split will not receive the benefit of the protection provided to stockholders of a company subject to Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations, including, but not limited to, certain corporate governance, reporting, and management certifications required under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and disclosure and liability applicable to reports and statements made pursuant to the requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The Company intends to explore methods to distribute financial information to its stockholders on a cost effective basis. The board of directors does not believe this factor makes the transaction unfair to unaffiliated stockholders because any detriment to unaffiliated stockholders that may result from the termination of the registration of the Company's securities and the Company's periodic filings will be offset by the anticipated cost-saving benefits and competitive advantages to the Company of no longer publicly filing such reports.

Inability to participate in any future increase in the value of the Company's Common Stock. Stockholders who are cashed out as a result of the Reverse Split will have no further interest in the Company with respect to their cashed out shares, and thus will not have the opportunity to participate in the potential upside of any increase in the value of such shares. The Company's board of directors determined that this factor does not make the transaction unfair to unaffiliated stockholders because those unaffiliated stockholders who desire to hold shares of the Company's Common Stock after the Reverse Split can do so by acquiring sufficient shares so that they hold at least 300 shares in their account immediately prior to the Reverse Split.

Procedural Factors Disfavoring the Reverse Split and Interests of the Company's Directors and Executive Officers in the Reverse Split

The Reverse Split has not been structured to require the separate approval of a special committee of the board of directors or the majority of unaffiliated stockholders or provide for appraisal rights. Among the factors weighing against the procedural fairness of the Reverse Split is the fact that the board of directors did not establish a special committee to represent the interests of the unaffiliated stockholders, that Burt Sugarman, the Chairman President and Chief Executive Officer who beneficially owns more than a majority of the shares of Common Stock of the Company outstanding, is among the directors who approved the Reverse Split, that approval of the majority of unaffiliated stockholders will not be required and that the applicable laws do not provide for appraisal rights to stockholders of the Company. However, even though it was not required, the board of directors unanimously approved the Reverse Split.

The board of directors did not establish an independent or special committee to act on behalf of the interests of the unaffiliated stockholders or require approval of the majority of the unaffiliated stockholders for several reasons. First and foremost, the Reverse Split will be applied equally to all shares of the Company, whether held by affiliated or unaffiliated stockholders. Second, unlike a third party tender offer or a repurchase of shares by the Company, there is no party to negotiate on behalf of the unaffiliated stockholders. Since the board of directors is tasked with determining a fair price to offer all stockholders and since, considering that the maximum number of shares that will be converted in the Reverse Split to cash consideration for any one stockholder is less than 300 shares (representing less than $550), the expense of engaging an independent third-party or motivating an unaffiliated stockholder to negotiate the price would have been impractical. Third, four of the five board members are non-employees of the Company. Fourth, the board of directors is comprised entirely of individuals owning shares of Common Stock of the Company and with many years of investment experience, and, therefore, forming a special committee of the board comprised of less than the entire board would not have been materially beneficial in determining the cash consideration to be payable for fractional shares. Finally, the board of directors believes its long-standing familiarity with the Company, the Company's history and financial condition, and the Company's prospects make the time and expense of a special committee or independent representative unwarranted. Given the experience level and make up of the board of directors, the Company did not believe it was necessary to appoint a special committee to evaluate the fairness of the terms of the Reverse Split or the value of the Company's Common Stock. Furthermore, the board of directors noted that the applicable laws of the State of Delaware, the jurisdiction under which the Company is incorporated, does not provide for appraisal rights for the fair value of the shares of Common Stock of the Company for stockholders who do not vote in favor of the Reverse Split. Despite the fact that the Reverse Split has not been structured to require an approval of a special committee or a majority of unaffiliated stockholders for the reasons discussed above or provide for appraisal rights, the board of directors determined that, because (1) the consideration to be paid for each share of Common Stock of the Company will be the same in the Reverse Split irrespective of whether such shares are held by affiliated or unaffiliated stockholders, (2) the reverse split cannot, by its structure, result in converting more than 299 shares (representing less than $550) per stockholder, (3) the cash consideration to be paid for fractional shares will be at a premium to the recent trading price for such shares, and (4) unaffiliated stockholders will be able to convert a greater percentage of their holdings of shares of Common Stock of the Company at such premium than the affiliated stockholders would be able to so convert. The board of directors determined that such factors favoring the procedural fairness to unaffiliated stockholders would sufficiently protect the rights of the unaffiliated stockholders of the Company in the Reverse Split despite the lack of such procedural safeguards.

With respect to the fact that the Company's directors hold sufficient shares of Common Stock of the Company to approve the Reverse Split, the board of directors believes that this potential conflict is outweighed by the substantive features and procedural safeguards of the Reverse Split, including the equal application of the Reverse Split to all shares of the Company, the fact that all stockholders will have the option to remain stockholders of the Company (by purchasing additional shares prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split), and the fairness of the price offered to all stockholders.

The board of directors has not obtained a fairness report. The board of directors did not obtain a fairness opinion, appraisal or other independent assessment because the Reverse Split is structured in such a way that it will apply equally to both affiliated and unaffiliated stockholders. While all of the Company's affiliated stockholders will remain stockholders of the Company following the Reverse Split by virtue of their holdings, unaffiliated stockholders will have the same opportunity if they so choose. In light of such equal treatment, the board of directors concluded that the expense associated with obtaining a fairness opinion was not justified in this case.

As a result of the Reverse Split, the stockholders who own more than 300 shares, such as the Company's executive officers and directors, will increase their percentage ownership interest in the Company as a result of the Reverse Split. After giving effect to the Reverse Split and based on information and estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock as of October 26, 2004 and after assuming that all vested in-the-money options are exercised, the beneficial ownership percentage of the Company's executive officers and directors, including vested options, will increase from 68.6% to 76.12%, including the ownership percentage of Burt Sugarman (including shares owned by members of Mr. Sugarman's family) increasing from 60.4% to 67.0%, David Gotterer increasing from 4.4% to 4.9%, Terry Christensen increasing from 2.2% to 2.4%, David Malcolm increasing from 0.5% to 0.6%, Jeffrey Rosenthal increasing from 0.6% to 0.7%, and Pasquale Ambrogio increasing from 0.4% to 0.5%, in each case, as a result of the reduction by an estimated 350,000 shares in the number of shares of the Company's Common Stock outstanding (Mr. Sugarman does not hold any options). Furthermore, after giving effect to the Reverse Split and exercise of all vested in-the-money options and based on information and estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock as of October 26, 2004 and the net book value as at September 30, 2004, Mr. Sugarman's, Mr. Gotterer's, Mr. Christensen's, Mr. Malcolm's, Mr. Rosenthal's, and Mr. Ambrogio's interests in the Company's net book value would have increased from $6.89 million, $0.51 million, $0.25 million, $0.06 million, $0.07 million, and $0.05 million, respectively, to $8.11 million, $0.60 million, $0.29 million, $0.07 million, $0.08 million, and $0.06 million, respectively. After giving effect to the Reverse Split and exercise of all vested in-the-money options and based on information and estimates of record ownership of shares of Common Stock as of October 26, 2004, net earnings of the Company for the three months ended September 30, 2004 and net earnings of the Company for the nine months ended September 30, 2004, Mr. Sugarman's, Mr. Gotterer's, Mr. Christensen's, Mr. Malcolm's, Mr. Rosenthal's, and

Mr. Ambrogio's interests in the Company's net earning of the Company for the three months ended September 30, 2004 would have decreased from $0.31 million, $0.02 million, $0.01 million, $0.00 million, $0.00 million, and $0.00 million, respectively, to $0.30 million, $0.02 million, $0.01 million, $0.00 million, $0.00 million, and $0.00 million, respectively, and for the nine months ended September 30, 2004 would have increased from $1.85 million, $0.14 million, $0.07 million, $0.02 million, $0.02 million, and $0.01 million, respectively, to $2.01 million, $0.15 million, $0.07 million, $0.02 million, $0.02 million, and $0.01 million, respectively. However, since the affiliated stockholders had a significant majority of the outstanding shares of the Company's Common Stock prior to the Reverse Split, the board determined that such increase in percentage ownership by such affiliated stockholders, including Mr. Sugarman, would not materially affect the affiliated stockholders' control of the Company after the Reverse Split.

Recommendation of the Board; Fairness of the Reverse Split

The board of directors of the Company has unanimously approved the Reverse Split and declared it advisable, in the best interests of, and substantively and procedurally fair to, the Company's unaffiliated stockholders, whether they are cashed out or remain as stockholders of the Company. The board of directors recommends that stockholders vote FOR approval of the proposed amendment to the Company's Certificate of Incorporation to effectuate the Reverse Split. See Factors Considered by the board of directors as to the Fairness of the Reverse Split above.

Effects of the Reverse Split on Stockholders Who Hold Fewer than 300 Shares of the Company's Common Stock in a Single Account

When the Reverse Split is effected, stockholders holding fewer than 300 shares of the Company's Common Stock in a single account immediately prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split will not receive a fractional share of the Company's Common Stock as a result of the Reverse Split, but rather shall receive cash equal to $1.85 for each share of the Company's Common Stock held immediately prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split (Cashed-Out Stockholders). The Company intends to pay any reasonable transaction fee that is imposed on the Cashed-Out Stockholders by a bank, brokerage firm or other nominee. Given that Cashed-Out Stockholders will not have to pay any service charges or brokerage commissions in connection with the cashing out of their shares as a result of the Reverse Split and given the historical illiquidity of the Company's Common Stock, the Company believes the structure of the Reverse Split to be a benefit to the Cashed-Out Stockholders. Among the potential detriments of the Reverse Split is the fact that after the Reverse Split, Cashed-Out Stockholders will have no further ownership interest in the Company, and will no longer be entitled to vote as a stockholder or share in the Company's future assets, earnings, or profits. The Cashed-Out Stockholder's only right will be to receive cash for their shares of Common Stock.

All amounts owed to the Cashed-Out Stockholders as a result of the Reverse Split will be subject to applicable federal and state income taxes and state abandoned property, or escheat, laws. Additional details regarding the federal tax consequences are described later in this Proxy Statement under the heading Certain Material Federal Income Tax Consequences. Additional details regarding state abandoned property, or escheat, laws are described later in this Proxy Statement under the heading Escheat Laws.

As soon as practical after the consummation of the Reverse Split, the Company or the Company's transfer agent will mail a letter of transmittal to each stockholder. The letter of transmittal will contain instructions for the surrender of the stock certificate or certificates to the Company's exchange agent in exchange for the payment of the Cash Consideration. No cash payment will be made to any stockholder until the stockholder has surrendered his or her outstanding certificate(s), together with the letter of transmittal, to the Company's exchange agent. For more detailed information, see the section entitled Stock Certificates. After the Reverse Split, stockholders will have no further rights as stockholders with respect to the fractional shares, whether or not such stockholder has been paid for such fractional shares.

Effects of the Reverse Split on Stockholders Who Hold 300 or More Shares of the Company's Common Stock in a Single Account

When the Reverse Split is effected, stockholders with 300 or more shares of the Company's Common Stock in a single account immediately prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split (Remaining Stockholders) will:

as of the Effective Date of the Reverse Split, have his or her shares of Common Stock converted into post-split Common Stock and will receive one new share of Common Stock for every 300 shares of pre-split Common Stock in his or her account; and in lieu of receiving fractional shares, receive cash equal to $1.85 for each share of the Company's Common Stock that are held immediately prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split and not otherwise converted to post-split Common Stock.

While the Remaining Stockholders will benefit from having the opportunity to share in the future successes of the Company, if any, among the detriments of the Reverse Split to the Remaining Stockholders is the fact that they will not have the option to liquidate all of their shares like the Cashed-Out Stockholders. Further, once the Company is private, it will be even more difficult to value, and therefore, sell their shares of Common Stock if they should so desire.

General Examples of Potential Effects of the Reverse Split

In general, the results of the Reverse Split can be illustrated by the following examples:

Hypothetical Scenario	Result
Stockholder A is a registered stockholder who holds 200 shares of the Company's Common Stock in her record account on the Effective Date of the Reverse Split.	Instead of receiving a fractional share of the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, Stockholder A's 200 shares will be converted into the right to receive $370.00 (200 x $1.85). Note: If Stockholder A wants to continue her investment in the Company, she can buy at least 100 more shares of the Company's Common Stock and hold the shares in her record account. Stockholder A would have to act far enough in advance of the Effective Date of the Reverse Split so that the purchase is complete before the close of business on that date.
Stockholder B has two separate record accounts. As of the Effective Date of the Reverse Split, he holds 200 shares of the Company's Common Stock in one account and 100 shares of the Company's Common Stock in the other. All of his shares are registered in his name only.	Stockholder B will be entitled to receive cash payments equal to the number of shares of the Company's Common Stock that he holds in each record account, instead of receiving fractional shares. Stockholder B would receive two checks totaling $555.00 (200 x $1.85 = $370.00; 100 x $1.85 = $185.00; $370.00 + $185.00 = $555.00). Note: If Stockholder B wants to continue his investment in the Company he can consolidate his two accounts prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split. In that case, his holdings will not be cashed out in connection with the Reverse Split because he will hold 300 shares of the Company's Common Stock in one record account, which would convert to one share of the Company's Common Stock. He would have to act far enough in advance so that the consolidation is complete before the close of business on the Effective Date of the Reverse Split.

Stockholder C holds 660 shares of the Company's Common Stock in his record account as of the Effective Date of the Reverse Split.

After the Reverse Split, Stockholder C will hold two shares in his record account ($660/300 = 2.2$) and, instead of receiving a fractional share of the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, Stockholder C's unconverted 60 shares will be converted into the right to receive $111.00 ($60 \times \1.85)

Effect of the Reverse Split on Option Holders

Upon effectiveness of the Reverse Split, any options under the Amended 1996 Employee Stock Option Plan and Amended Stock Option Plan for Non-Employee Directors will have their number of shares and exercise prices adjusted to give effect to the 1-for-300 Reverse Split, with any fractional shares resulting from such adjustment converting to a right to receive $1.85 in cash per pre-reverse split share less the exercise price of such pre-reverse split shares subject to the option. The vesting schedule for the options will remain unchanged.

Effects of the Reverse Split on the Company

The Reverse Split is expected to reduce the number of the Company's stockholders and the number of the Company's outstanding shares of Common Stock. The Company's Certificate of Amendment to the Company's Certificate of Incorporation currently authorizes the issuance of 12,500,000 shares of Common Stock, $0.01 par value. Upon the filing of the Certificate of Amendment with the Delaware Secretary of State, the Company's authorized shares of Common Stock will be reduced to 41,666. As of October 26, 2004, 3,349,000 shares of the Company's Common Stock were outstanding. Fractional shares of Common Stock that result from the Reverse Split will be acquired for cash and cancelled. Such cancelled shares will become authorized but unissued shares of the Company's Common Stock. The Company believes that the Reverse Split will reduce the number of shares of the Company's Common Stock outstanding of record from 3,349,000 to approximately 3,000,000, assuming approximately 350,000 shares of pre-split Common Stock are cashed out. The Company may issue additional shares resulting from the cancellation of such fractional shares without stockholder approval and without increasing the number of shares of Common Stock authorized under the Company's Certificate of Incorporation. Such future issuance of shares that are cancelled in the Reverse Split may have dilutive effect on the ownership percentage of the stockholders of the Company who remain stockholders after the Reverse Split. The ability to issue such shares may prevent a third party from pursuing an unsolicited takeover proposal for the company.

Our Common Stock is currently registered under the Exchange Act and consequently the Company is subject to the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations of the Exchange Act. The Company believes the Reverse Split will reduce the number of record holders of Common Stock from approximately 1,417 to approximately 77, which will allow the Company to file to terminate the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations and continue future operations as a private company, and thereby relieving the Company of the costs, administrative burdens and competitive disadvantages associated with a operating as a public company.

Based on the aggregate number of stockholders of the Company's Common Stock, and the number of stockholders of record owning more than 300 shares of the Company's Common Stock as of the Record Date, the Company estimates that payments of cash in lieu of the issuance of fractional shares to stockholders will total approximately $646,000 in the aggregate. If stockholders holding less than 300 shares of the Company's Common Stock purchase sufficient shares of the Company's Common Stock to remain stockholders following the Reverse Split, then the number of holders of record of the Company's Common Stock may not be reduced below 300 and the Company may be ineligible to terminate its Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations.

The Company believes the completion of the Reverse Split and the subsequent termination of the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations will cause the market for shares of the Company's Common Stock to be substantially reduced or possibly eliminated. The Company's Common Stock is currently traded in the over-the-counter market, and last sales prices are reported on the NASD OTC, which is a regulated quotation service that displays real time quotes, last sales prices and volume information in over-the-counter equity securities. This source of liquidity will no longer be available to the Company's stockholders following the Reverse Split.

The Company's Common Stock will continue to have the same par value following the consummation of the Reverse Split. In addition, each post-Reverse Split share of the Company's Common Stock will be entitled to one (1) vote per one (1) whole share.

The Company has no current plans to issue Common Stock other than pursuant to the Company's existing stock plans, but the Company reserves the right to do so at any time and from time to time at such prices and on such terms as the Company's board of directors determines to be in the Company's best interests and the best interests of the Company's then stockholders. The Company has no current plans or proposals to effect any extraordinary corporate transaction such as a merger, reorganization or liquidation, to change the Company's board of directors or management, to change materially the Company's or capitalization, or otherwise to effect any material change in the Company's corporate structure of business. The Company's board of directors will take such action, as it deems necessary or appropriate to make equitable adjustments to any outstanding stock options or other rights to acquire the Company's Common Stock.

The Company is undertaking the Reverse Split at this time because, among other reasons, the Company believes that it will save substantial costs associated with compliance with the Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations. However, the Company's cost saving estimates may be inaccurate, and the actual savings to be realized from terminating the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations may be higher or lower than the Company's estimates.

Conduct of the Company's Business after the Reverse Split

Following the Reverse Split, the Company will no longer be a public-reporting company, but rather will operate as a private company. The Company expects the Company's business and operations to continue as they are currently being conducted and, except as disclosed in this Proxy Statement, the Reverse Split is not anticipated to have any material effect upon the conduct of the Company's business. The Company expects to be subject to substantially the same risks and uncertainties after the Reverse Split.

Reservation of Right to Abandon the Reverse Split

The Company's board of directors retains the right to abandon the Reverse Split, even though approved, if it determines prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split that the Reverse Split is not then in the Company's best interest or the best interest of the Company's stockholders. Among the circumstances that might cause the board to abandon the Reverse Split is a significant risk of the Reverse Split failing to achieve the overall goal of reducing the number of record holders to fewer than 300, or where the expense of cashing out the stockholders with fewer than 300 shares becomes so high that the transaction become financially prohibitive. If the Reverse Split is not implemented, then the Company will be unable to terminate the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations until the Company have fewer than 300 holders of record of the Company's Common Stock.

Reports, Opinions and Appraisals

The Company has not appointed a special committee or obtained a fairness report, opinion, appraisal, or other independent assessment of the fairness of the terms of the Reverse Split or the value of the Company's Common Stock.

Escheat Laws

The unclaimed property and escheat laws of various states provide that under circumstances defined in that state's statutes, holders of unclaimed or abandoned property must surrender that property to the state. Persons whose shares are eliminated and whose addresses are unknown to the Company, or who do not return their stock certificates and request payment therefor, generally will have a fixed period of years from the

Effective Date of the Reverse Split in which to claim the cash payment payable to them. For example, with respect to stockholders whose last known addresses are in California, as shown by the records of the Company, the period is three years. Following the expiration of that three-year period, the Unclaimed Property Law of California would likely cause the cash payments to escheat to the State of California. For stockholders who reside in other states or whose last known addresses, as shown by the records of the Company, are in states other than California, such states may have abandoned property laws which call for such state to obtain either (i) custodial possession of property that has been unclaimed until the owner reclaims it; or (ii) escheat of such property to the state. Under the laws of such other jurisdictions, the holding period or the time period which must elapse before the property is deemed to be abandoned may be shorter or longer than three years. If the Company does not have an address for the holder of record of the shares, then the Company would turn over unclaimed cash-out payments to the Company's state of incorporation, the state of Delaware, in accordance with its escheat laws.

Appraisal Rights

No appraisal rights are available under the Delaware General Corporation Law to stockholders who dissent from the Reverse Split. There may exist other rights or actions under state law for stockholders who are aggrieved by reverse stock splits generally. Although the nature and extent of such rights or actions are uncertain and may vary depending upon facts or circumstances, stockholder challenges to corporate action in general are related to the fiduciary responsibilities of corporate officers and directors and to the fairness of corporate transactions. For example, stockholders could, if they deemed such to be applicable, take appropriate legal action against the Company and its board of directors, and claim that the transaction was unfair to the unaffiliated stockholders, and/or that there was no justifiable or reasonable business purpose for the Reverse Split.

Material Federal Income Tax Consequences

Set forth below are material federal income tax consequences to the Company and the Company's stockholders resulting from the Reverse Split. This discussion is based on existing U.S. federal income tax law, which may change, even retroactively. This discussion also assumes that the stockholders have held and will continue to hold their shares as capital assets under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. This discussion does not discuss all aspects of federal income taxation, including aspects that may be important to stockholders in light of their individual circumstances. Many stockholders, such as banks, financial institutions, insurance companies, broker-dealers, tax-exempt organizations, and securities traders that elect market-to-market tax accounting treatment, may be subject to special tax rules. Other stockholders may also be subject to special tax rules, including but not limited to: stockholders who received the Company's Common Stock as compensation for services or pursuant to the exercise of an employee stock option, or stockholders who have held, or will hold, stock as part of a straddle, hedging, or conversion transaction for federal income tax purposes. In addition, this summary does not discuss any state, local, foreign, or other tax considerations.

For purposes of this discussion, a U.S. person means any of the following: (1) a citizen or resident of the United States; (2) a corporation or other entity taxable as a corporation created or organized under U.S. law (federal or state); (3) an estate the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation regardless of its sources; and (4) a trust if a U.S. court is able to exercise primary supervision over administration of the trust and one or more U.S. persons have authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust, or if the trust has a valid election in effect under applicable U.S. Treasury regulations to be treated as a U.S. person; or (5) any other person whose worldwide income and gain is otherwise subject to U.S. federal income taxation on a net basis. As the used herein, the term "U.S. Holder" means a beneficial owner of the Company's Common Stock that is a U.S. person, and the term "non-U.S. Holder" means a beneficial owner of the Company's Common Stock that is not a U.S. person.

The Company urges stockholders to consult their own tax advisor as to the particular federal, state, local, foreign, and other tax consequences, in light of their specific circumstances. If a partnership holds the Company's Common Stock, the tax treatment of a partner generally will depend upon the status of the partner and upon the activities of the partnership. If the stockholder is a partner of a partnership holding the Company's Common Stock, the Company suggest that such stockholder consult its tax advisor.

Federal Income Tax Consequences to the Company

The Company believes that the Reverse Split should be treated as a tax-free recapitalization for federal income tax purposes. This should result in no material federal income tax consequences to the Company.

Federal Income Tax Consequences to Stockholders Receiving No Cash from the Reverse Split

If a stockholder (1) continues to hold the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, and (2) receives no cash as a result of the Reverse Split, such stockholder should not recognize any gain or loss in the Reverse Split. The aggregate adjusted tax basis in such shares of the Company's Common Stock held immediately after the Reverse Split should be equal to the aggregate adjusted tax basis in the shares of Common Stock held immediately prior to the Reverse Split and the stockholder should have the same holding period in the Common Stock as it had in such stock immediately prior to the Reverse Split.

Federal Income Tax Consequences to Stockholders Receiving Cash

If a stockholder receives cash as a result of the Reverse Split, its tax consequences will depend on whether, in addition to receiving cash, it or a person or entity related to it continues to hold the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, as explained below.

Stockholders Who Exchange All of Their Common Stock for Cash as a Result of the Reverse Split. If a stockholder (1) receives cash in exchange for a fractional share as a result of the Reverse Split, (2) does not continue to hold any of the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, and (3) is not related to any person or entity which holds the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, such stockholder will recognize capital gain or loss. The amount of capital gain or loss such stockholder recognizes will equal the difference between the cash received for the cashed-out stock and the aggregate adjusted tax basis in such stock.

If a stockholder is related to a person or entity who continues to hold the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, such stockholder will recognize gain or loss in the same manner as set forth in the previous paragraph, provided that such receipt of cash either (1) is not essentially equivalent to a dividend, or (2) is a substantially disproportionate redemption of stock, as described below.

Not Essentially Equivalent to a Dividend. A stockholder will satisfy the not essentially equivalent to a dividend test if the reduction in its proportionate interest in the Company resulting from the Reverse Split is considered a meaningful reduction given the particular facts and circumstances. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has ruled that a small reduction by a minority stockholder whose relative stock interest is minimal and who exercises no control over the affairs of the corporation will meet this test.

Substantially Disproportionate Redemption of Stock. The receipt of cash in the Reverse Split will be a substantially disproportionate redemption of stock for a stockholder if (i) it owns less than 50% of the outstanding shares of the Company's Common Stock after the Reverse Split, and (ii) the percentage of the outstanding shares of the Company's Common Stock owned by such stockholder immediately after the Reverse Split is less than 80% of the percentage of shares of the Company's Common Stock owned by it immediately before the Reverse Split.

In applying these tests, the stockholder will be treated as owning shares actually or constructively owned by certain individuals and entities related to such stockholder. If the receipt of cash in exchange for the Company's Common Stock does not give rise to capital gain or loss under any of the tests, it will be treated first as ordinary dividend income to the extent of the stockholder's ratable share of the Company's undistributed earnings and profits, then as a tax-free return of capital to the extent of its aggregate adjusted tax basis in the shares, and any remaining amount will be treated as capital gain.

Stockholders Who Both Receive Cash and Continue to Hold the Company's Common Stock Immediately After the Reverse Split. If a stockholder both receive cash as a result of the Reverse Split and continue to hold the Company's Common Stock immediately after the Reverse Split, it generally will recognize gain, but not loss, in an amount equal to the lesser of (1) the excess of the sum of aggregate fair market value of its shares of the Company's Common Stock plus the cash received over its adjusted tax basis in the shares, or (2) the amount of cash received in the Reverse Split. The aggregate adjusted tax basis in such stockholder's shares of the Company's Common Stock held immediately after the Reverse Split will be equal to its aggregate adjusted tax basis in such shares of the Company's Common Stock held immediately prior to the Reverse Split, increased by any gain recognized in the Reverse Split, and decreased by the amount of cash received in the Reverse Split.

Any gain recognized in the Reverse Split will be treated, for federal income tax purposes, as capital gain, provided that the receipt of cash either (1) is not essentially equivalent to a dividend with respect to the stockholder, or (2) is a substantially disproportionate redemption of stock with respect to the stockholder as discussed above, under the heading Stockholders Who Exchange All of Their Common Stock for Cash as a Result of the Reverse Split. In applying these tests, the stockholder will be treated as owning shares held by certain individuals and entities related to such stockholder, and the stockholder may take into account sales of shares of the Company's Common Stock that occur substantially contemporaneously with the Reverse Split. If the gain is not treated as capital gain under any of these tests, the gain will be treated as ordinary dividend income to the stockholder to the extent of its ratable share of the Company's undistributed earnings and profits, then as a tax-free return of capital to the extent of its aggregate adjusted tax basis in its shares, and any remaining gain will be treated as a capital gain.

Dividend Income, Capital Gain and Capital Loss

Recently enacted legislation reduced the maximum U.S. federal income tax rate applicable to dividends received from domestic corporations by an individual taxpayer to a maximum of 15%, subject to the requirements the individual must have held the stock with respect to which a dividend is distributed for a minimum of 61 days during the 120-day period beginning 60 days before the stock becomes ex-dividend. A taxpayer's holding period for these purposes is reduced by periods during which the taxpayer's risk of loss with respect to the stock is considered diminished by reason of the existence of options, contracts to sell and similar transactions. The reduced rate of tax applies to the taxable years between 2003 and 2008. Individual stockholders should consult their own advisors as to their eligibility for the reduced rate of tax in relation to dividends on the Company's Common Stock.

Recent legislation also reduced the maximum U.S. federal income tax rate applicable to net capital gain (defined generally as the total capital gains in excess of capital losses for the year) recognized upon the sale of capital assets that have been held for more than 12 months to 15%. The reduced rate of tax applies to the taxable years between 2003 and 2008. Net capital gain recognized from the sale of capital assets that have been held for 12 months or less will continue to be subject to tax at ordinary income tax rates. Capital gain recognized by a corporate taxpayer will also continue to be subject to tax at the ordinary income tax rates applicable to corporations. For both individual and corporate taxpayers, there are significant limitations on the deductibility of capital losses.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

In general, payments of dividends with respect to the Company's Common Stock are subject to information reporting. Each paying agent will be required to provide the IRS with information, including the name, address, taxpayer identification number of each U.S. Holder receiving payments, and the aggregate amount of dividends paid to such beneficial owner during the calendar year. These reporting requirements, however, do not apply to all beneficial owners. Specifically, corporations, securities broker-dealers, other financial institutions, tax-exempt organizations, qualified pension and profit sharing trusts and individual retirement accounts, and non-U.S. persons satisfying certain requirements are all excluded from reporting requirements.

U.S. Holders will be required to provide their social security or other taxpayer identification numbers, and in some instances, additional information, to the Company's transfer agent in connection with the Reverse Split to avoid backup withholding requirements that might otherwise apply. The letter of transmittal will require each stockholder to deliver such information when the Common Stock certificates are surrendered following the Effective Date of the Reverse Split. Backup withholding will apply if a U.S. holder (i) fails to establish its exemption from the information reporting requirements, (ii) is subject to the reporting requirements and fails to supply its correct taxpayer identification number in the manner required by applicable law, (iii) underreports its tax liability, or (iv) if the paying agent has been otherwise notified by the IRS to backup withhold. The backup withholding tax rate is currently 28%. This backup withholding tax is not an additional tax and may be credited against a U.S. Holder's federal income tax liability if the required information is furnished to the IRS.

Special Rules for Non-U.S. Holders

If a stockholder is a non-U.S. Holder, its tax consequences will depend on whether its income or gain from the Reverse Split is effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business, or, if there is an applicable treaty, is attributable to a permanent establishment maintained in the United States. Performance of significant personal services constitutes the conduct of a U.S. trade or business.

Income or Gain Not Effectively Connected with the Conduct of a U.S. Trade or Business. Except as described below under the heading Income or Gain Effectively Connected with the Conduct of a U.S. Trade or Business, dividends (including deemed dividends) paid on the Company's Common Stock held by a non-U.S. holder will be subject to U.S. federal withholding tax (but not the federal income tax) at a rate of 30% or lower treaty rate, if applicable. In order to claim a reduction of withholding under a tax treaty, a non-U.S. holder generally will be required to file IRS Form W-8BEN upon which the non-U.S. holder certifies, under penalty of perjury, its status as a non-U.S. person and its entitlement to the lower treaty rate with respect to such payments. Further, a non-U.S. holder will generally not be subject to U.S. federal income or withholding tax on gain realized on the taxable disposition of the Company's Common Stock.

Income or Gain Effectively Connected with the Conduct of a U.S. Trade or Business. If dividends paid to a non-U.S. holder are effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business by the non-U.S. holder or, if required by a tax treaty, the dividends are attributable to a permanent establishment maintained in the United States by the non-U.S. holder, the Company and other payors generally are not required to withhold tax from the dividends, provided that the non-U.S. holder furnishes a valid IRS Form W-8ECI certifying, under penalty of perjury, that the holder is a non-U.S. person, and the dividends are effectively connected with the holder's conduct of a U.S. trade or business and are includible in the holder's gross income. Effectively connected dividends will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on net income that applies to U.S. persons generally (and, with respect to corporate holders under certain circumstances, the branch profits tax).

In the case of any gain that is effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business by a non-U.S. holder (and, if required by a tax treaty, any gain that is attributable to a permanent establishment maintained in the United States), the non-U.S. holder will generally be taxed on its net gain derived from the disposition at the regular rates and in the manner applicable to U.S. persons and, if the non-U.S. holder is a foreign corporation, the branch profits tax may also apply.

Backup Withholding and Information Reporting

The Company must report annually to the IRS and to each non-U.S. holder the amount of dividends paid to that holder and the tax withheld from such dividend payments. These reporting requirements apply regardless of whether withholding was reduced or eliminated by any applicable tax treaty. Copies of the information returns reporting dividend payments and any withholding thereof may also be made available to the tax authorities in the country in which the non-U.S. holder is a resident under the provisions of an applicable income tax treaty or agreement.

A non-U.S. holder will generally not be subject to additional information reporting or to backup withholding with respect to dividend payments on the Company's Common Stock, or to information reporting or backup withholding with respect to payments of proceeds from the disposition of the Company's Common Stock to or through a U.S. office of any broker, as long as the holder has furnished to the payor or broker: (i) a valid IRS Form W-8BEN certifying, under penalties of perjury, its status as a non-U.S. person; (ii) other documentation upon which it may rely to treat the payments as made to a non-U.S. person in accordance with Treasury regulations; or (iii) otherwise establishes an exemption.

Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules from a payment to a non-U.S. holder will be allowed as a credit against such holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, if any, or will otherwise be refundable, provided that the requisite procedures are followed and the proper information is filed with the IRS on a timely basis. Non-U.S. holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding their qualification for exemption from backup withholding and the procedure for obtaining such an exemption, if applicable.

As explained above, the amounts paid to a stockholder as a result of the Reverse Split may result in dividend income, capital gain income, or some combination of dividend and capital gain income to such stockholder depending on its individual circumstances. The Company urges each stockholder to consult its tax advisor as to the particular federal, state, local, foreign, and other tax consequences of the transaction, in light of the specific circumstances.

Regulatory Approvals

The Company is not aware of any material governmental or regulatory approval required for completion of the transaction, other than compliance with the applicable federal and state securities laws and the corporate laws of the State of Delaware.

THE REVERSE SPLIT

Basic Terms

Promptly upon approval of the proposal to amend the Certificate of Incorporation to effectuate the Reverse Split, the Company will file the Certificate of Amendment with the Delaware Secretary of State to effect a 1-for-300 reverse split of the Company's Common Stock as approved by the Company's board of directors on September 8, 2004. Under the terms of the Reverse Split, every holder of record on the Effective Date of the Reverse Split will be entitled to receive one share of the Company's Common Stock for every 300 shares held by such person. No fractional shares will be issued. Instead, the Company will pay, in lieu of fractional shares, $1.85 for each share of the Company's Common Stock held by a holder immediately before the Effective Date of the Reverse Split and not converted to whole shares of Common Stock of the Company after the Reverse Split.

If a stockholder will be a Cashed Out Stockholder as a result of the Reverse Split and it wants to continue to hold Common Stock of the Company after the Reverse Split, it may do so by taking either of the following actions far enough in advance so that it is complete before the close of business on the Effective Date for the Reverse Split:

purchase a sufficient number of shares of Common Stock of the Company on the open market and have them registered in such stockholder's name and consolidated with its current record account if it is a record holder, or have them entered in its account with a nominee, such as its broker or bank, in which it currently holds shares of Common Stock of the Company, so that such stockholder holds at least 300 shares of Common Stock of the Company in its record account immediately prior to the Effective Date for the Reverse Split; or if applicable, consolidate its record accounts, or its accounts with nominees, so that it holds at least 300 shares of Common Stock of the Company in a single record account immediately prior to the Effective Date for the Reverse Split.

Because of the limited trading market for the Company's Common Stock, a stockholder may be unable to purchase enough shares to retain an equity interest in the Company.

The Company intends for the Reverse Split to treat stockholders holding Common Stock in street name through a nominee, such as a bank or broker, in the same manner as stockholders whose shares are registered in their names. Nominees will be instructed to effect the Reverse Split for their beneficial holders. Accordingly, the Company also refers to those street name holders who receive a cash payment instead of fractional shares as Cashed Out Stockholders. However, nominees may have different procedures and stockholders holding shares in street name should contact their nominees.

The Reverse Split is structured to be an Rule 13e-3 transaction under the Exchange Act because it is intended to, and if completed will likely, reduce the number of record holders of the Company's Common Stock to fewer than 300, which will permit the Company to terminate the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations. In connection with the Reverse Split, the Company and Mr. Sugarman have filed a joint Rule 13e-3 Transaction Statement on Schedule 13E-3 with the Commission. The Company intends to apply for the termination of the Company's Registration and Periodic Reporting Obligations as soon as practicable after the Effective Date of the Reverse Split.

Effective Time

The Effective Date of the Reverse Split will be the date that the Delaware Secretary of State accepts the Certificate of Amendment for filing.

Stock Certificates

The Company's transfer agent, US Stock Transfer Company, has been appointed as the Company's exchange agent to carry out the exchange of existing stock certificates for new Common Stock certificates and to send cash payments in lieu of fractional shares. Promptly following the Effective Date of the Reverse Split, the transfer agent will send a letter of transmittal to each affected stockholder, which will describe the procedures for surrendering stock certificate(s) in exchange for new Common Stock and/or, if applicable, the Cash Consideration. Upon receipt of the stock certificate(s) and properly completed letter(s) of transmittal, the transfer agent will issue the appropriate new stock certificate(s) and/or make the appropriate cash payment within approximately 20 business days.

No service charges will be payable by the Company's stockholders in connection with the exchange of certificates and/or the payment of cash in lieu of issuing fractional shares because the Company will bear all such reasonable expenses. The Company will not pay interest on cash sums due to any such stockholder in connection with the Reverse Split.

All stock certificates outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Date of the Reverse Split evidencing ownership of the Company's Common Stock shall be deemed cancelled without further action by the stockholders as of the Effective Date of the Reverse Split. Do not send any stock certificates to the Company or the Company's transfer agent until a transmittal letter has been received and the instructions therein has been followed.

Provision for Unaffiliated Stockholders

Neither the Company, nor any executive officer or director thereof nor any person controlling the Company has made any provision in connection with the Reverse Split to grant unaffiliated stockholders access to the corporate files of the Company or to obtain counsel or appraisal services at the expense of the Company.

Source of Funds and Financial Effect of the Reverse Split

Given that the actual number of shares of Common Stock that the Company will purchase is unknown at this time, the total cash the Company will pay to stockholders is currently unknown, but is estimated to be not more than $646,000. The Company expects to finance the Cash Consideration to be paid in connection with the Reverse Split and other expenses for the Reverse Split through the Company's available cash and cash equivalents the sale of one or more parcels of real property and/or from available borrowings under its existing credit facility. Presently, each of the parcels of real property owned by the Company is listed for sale with a real estate broker in Montana. If the Company does not obtain sufficient funds through the sale of one or more of such parcels, the Company will borrow funds pursuant to its existing credit line. As of December 10, 2004, the Company may borrow approximately $2.7 million under its existing credit facility obtained through American the Bank of Montana. Any borrowing under the credit facility, which provides for total borrowings under the facility of $7.0 million, bears an annual interest rate of 6.0% and matures on June 1, 2006. The Reverse Split and the use of approximately $706,000 in cash to complete the Reverse Split, which includes professional fees and other expenses related to the transaction and cash payments to be made in lieu of issuing fractional shares, are not expected to have any material adverse effect on the Company's capitalization, liquidity, results of operations or cash flow. Although the portion of the cash and cash equivalent available at the time of the consummation of the Reverse Split will depend on the number of parcels of real property sold by the Company prior to the Reverse Split, the Company currently estimates that all of the Company's cash and cash equivalent, with the remainder from the available borrowing under the Company's credit facility and proceeds from the sale of the Company's real estate, will be used to finance the cash consideration for the fractional shares resulting from, and cost and expenses of, the Reverse Split. Furthermore, the board of directors have determined that any failure by the Company to sell its real estate properties will not affect the Company's decision to proceed with the Reverse Split.

The Company's cash and cash equivalents, at the beginning of September 30, 2004, was approximately $246,000. The Company expect to use all of these funds to pay the Cash Consideration for the fractional shares and other expenses incurred in connection with the Reverse Split. The Company expects to obtain additional cash from the sale of one or more of its real property lots and/or available borrowing, which, as of December 10, 2004, was $2.7 million, under its credit facility.

Fees and Expenses

The following is a reasonably itemized statement of the fees and expenses that have been incurred or that are estimated to be incurred in connection with the Reverse Split and the transactions related thereto:

$646,000 in Cash Consideration for fractional shares;

$3,000 to the Company's auditors;

$30,000 to the Company's legal counsel;

$14,000 for printing and other costs in connection with the mailing of this Proxy Statement; and $13,000 for transfer agent services.

Accounting Consequences

The Reverse Split will not affect the par value of the Company's Common Stock, which remains $0.01 per share. The Reverse Split will result in an increase in per share net income or loss and net book value of the Company's Common Stock because fewer shares of the Company's Common Stock will be outstanding. The Company's financial statements, incorporated herein by reference, do not reflect the Reverse Split.

Certain Legal Matters

The Company is not aware of any license or regulatory permit that appears to be material to the business of the Company that might be adversely affected by the Reverse Split, nor any approval or other action by any governmental, administrative or regulatory agency or authority, domestic or foreign, that would be required to consummate the Reverse Split, other than approvals, filings or notices required under federal and state securities laws and the filing of the Certificate of Amendment with the Delaware Secretary of State.

Market Prices of the Common Stock and Dividend Policy

Current Directors

The following are the names, ages and backgrounds of the Company's current Directors:

Burt Sugarman (65) is the Chairman of the Board and has held this position since 1983. Mr. Sugarman is a director of Checkers Drive-In Restaurants Inc. ("Checkers"). He previously served as a director of Santa Barbara Restaurant Group ("SBRG") from 1999 until its acquisition by CKE Restaurants, Inc. in 2001.

David Gotterer (75) is Vice Chairman of the Board and has held this position since 1986. He became a Director in 1984. Mr. Gotterer is a Certified Public Accountant. In February 2003, the accounting firm of Mason & Company, LLP merged with J.H. Cohn, LLP. Mr. Gotterer had been a senior partner in Mason and Company for more than the past five years. Since the merger, Mr. Gotterer has been performing consulting services at Mason & Company, a division of J.H. Cohn, LLP. Mr. Gotterer is a Director of Checkers.

Terry Christensen (63) became a Director in 1994. Mr. Christensen's principal occupation is senior partner in the law firm of Christensen, Miller, Fink, Jacobs, Glaser, Weil & Shapiro, LLP. He has held this position for more than the past five years. Mr. Christensen is a director of MGM MIRAGE, Fidelity National Financial, Inc. and Checkers.

David Malcolm (50) became a Director in 1996. Mr. Malcolm's principal occupation is chairman of the board of Suncoast Financial Mortgage Corporation. He has held this position for more than the past five years. Suncoast is a mortgage banking company and developer of several thousand homes in the San Diego Region. He is also a director of St. Vincent de Paul, a homeless shelter in San Diego. Previously, he was a director of Scripps Institute of Oceanography. In May 2003, Mr. Malcolm pleaded guilty to a felony charge of conflict of interest under California Government Code Section 1090 in the San Diego Superior Court. Such conflict of interest arose from the fact that Mr. Malcolm had failed to resign as a commissioner of the San Diego Port District, an unpaid position, when a matter involving Duke Energy, a company with which a company controlled by Mr. Malcolm had previously entered into a consulting agreement providing for compensation of $20,000 per month for consulting services, came before the San Diego Port District. Mr. Malcolm had previously disclosed to the San Diego Port District's attorney about the consulting agreement with Duke Energy and, upon advice of counsel, had left the meeting involving Duke Energy and did not participate in any vote or discussion on such matter. Mr. Malcolm had not been advised by counsel that he would be required to resign from his position at the San Diego Port District when such matter involving Duke Energy came before the San Diego Port District but instead was advised that it would be sufficient for Mr. Malcolm to abstain from voting on such matter and recuse himself. As a result of following the such counsel's legal advice and failing to resign from his position when such matter came before the San Diego Port District, Mr. Malcolm pleaded guilty to a felony charge of conflict of interest, was placed on three years probation, served 120 days in a work furlough program and paid a fine of approximately $250,000.

Jeffrey Rosenthal (46) became a Director in 1997. Mr. Rosenthal's principal occupation is president and chairman of Rose Investments LLC, a private investment firm. He has held this position for less than five years. Previously, Mr. Rosenthal served as chairman of Fanfare Media Works for more than five years.

Nominees for Directors

Edgar Filing: GIANT GROUP LTD - Form PRER14A

The Company's current five Directors are the nominees for election and if elected will serve on the Board until the 2006 annual meeting, until their successors are elected and qualified or until the earlier of their resignation, removal from the Board or death. There are no arrangements or understandings between any Director and any other person concerning service or nomination as a Director.

The Board has no reason to expect that any of the nominees will be unable to stand for election. In the event that a vacancy among the nominees occurs prior to the Annual Meeting, the proxies will be voted for a substitute nominee or nominees named by the Board and for the remaining nominees.

Although the Company does not have a policy regarding the Directors' attendance at annual meeting of the stockholders, four of the five current Directors were in attendance in person and the remaining director was in attendance telephonically at the last annual meeting of the stockholders.

THE BOARD RECOMMENDS A VOTE FOR THE ELECTION OF EACH OF THE NAMED NOMINEES

Current Executive Officers

The following are the names, ages and backgrounds of the Company's Executive Officers:

Burt Sugarman (65) is the Chairman of the Board and has held this position since 1983. Mr. Sugarman is a director of Checkers Drive-In Restaurants Inc. ("Checkers"). He previously served as a director of Santa Barbara Restaurant Group ("SBRG") from 1999 to its acquisition by CKE Restaurants, Inc. in 2001.

Pasquale A. Ambrogio (52) is Vice President, Chief Financial Officer and Secretary and has held these positions since May 2000. Previously, he held the position of Controller of the Company since 1995.

No family relationships exist between any of the Directors and Executive Officers.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Board Meetings

The Board held two meetings during the 2003 fiscal year. The Directors who served on the Board and on the committees of the Board attended all meetings of the Board and the committees on which they served. Directors acted by one written consent during the 2003 fiscal year.

Four of the five directors attended the 2003 and 2002 annual stockholders meetings in person and the remaining director participated by telephone.

Director Independence

The Board follows NASDAQ Market Place Rule 4200 (a)(15) regarding director independence and has determined that all Directors are independent for purposes of general Board service, with the exception of Mr. Sugarman, who is considered an inside director because of his position as Chief Executive Officer of the Company. The Board will assess its Directors continued independence in accordance with the NASDAQ Market Place Rule 4200 (a)(15) on an annual basis.

Committees of the Board

Currently, the six committees of the Board are the Executive, Nominating and Governance, Compensation, Option, Incentive Compensation and Audit committee. Each Director appointed to a committee serves until his successor is elected and qualified or until his earlier resignation, removal from the Board or death.

The Executive Committee acts in the management of the Company's business and affairs when the Board is not meeting. This committee, consisting of Messrs. Sugarman, Gotterer and Christensen did not meet formally during 2003 but consulted on an informal basis during the 2003 fiscal year.

The Nominating and Governance Committee recommends nominees for directors and recommends all policies regarding corporate governance matters. This committee consists of Messrs. Christensen, Gotterer and Rosenthal. This Committee was formed in September 2004. The Nominating and Governance Committee operates pursuant to a committee charter adopted by the Board. The Nominating and Governance Committee considers nominees recommended by a stockholder who contacts the Board with such recommendation pursuant to the procedure described under Stockholder Communication with the Board. Since the last annual meeting, there has been no recommendation for nominees to the Board other than the current directors who have been serving on the Board since their respective election at the last annual meeting of the stockholders. The Nominating and Governance Committee, when considering possible candidates, including candidates recommended by a stockholder, for election as a director, applies the following minimum guidelines and criteria: (1) each director must be chosen without regard to sex, race, age, religion or national origin, (2) each director should be an individual having an inquiring mind, vision and the ability to work well with others, (3) each director should be free of any conflict of interests that would violate applicable law or regulations or interfere with the proper performance of the responsibilities of a director, (4) each director should possess substantial and significant experience that would be of particular importance to the Company in the performance of the duties of a director, and (5) each director should have sufficient time available to devote to the affairs of the Company in order to carry out the responsibilities of a director.

The Compensation Committee recommends all policies on Executive Officer compensation, other than policies related to the 1997 Incentive Compensation Plan for Executive Officers. This committee, consisting of Messrs. Christensen and Gotterer did not meet formally during the 2003 fiscal year.

The Option Committee administers the Company's stock option plans. This committee, consisting of Messrs. Gotterer and Christensen did not meet formally during the 2003 fiscal year but consulted with each other on an informal basis during the 2003 fiscal year.

The Incentive Compensation Committee administers the Company's 1997 Incentive Compensation Plan. The committee, consisting of Messrs. Malcolm and Rosenthal did not meet formally but consulted with each other on an informal basis during the 2003 fiscal year.

The Audit Committee reviews the adequacy of the Company's financial organization, reviews management's procedures and policies relative to the adequacy of the Company's internal accounting controls, recommends the appointment of the independent auditor, approves the scope and fees for the annual audit and reviews the results of the annual audit with the independent auditor. The committee consists of Terry Christensen, David Malcolm and Jeffrey Rosenthal and is not governed by a written charter. The Committee met formally once and consulted on an informal basis during the 2003 fiscal year. The Board follows NASDAQ Market Place Rule 4350 (d) regarding audit committee member independence and has determined that all Directors serving on the audit committee, except Terry Christensen, are independent. The Board believes Mr. Christensen is not independent because he is a partner in a law firm that has received payments from the Company. The Audit committee is not governed by a written charter. The Board has determined, based on the Company's current business environment, there is no need to have a financial expert, as defined under Item 401(h) of Regulation S-K of the Securities Act of 1933, serving on the Audit Committee at this time. The Board believes that the financial and business backgrounds of the audit committee members provide adequate financial support for the Company.

Stockholder Communication with the Board

Stockholders may communicate in writing with any director of the Board, addressing their correspondence to: Pasquale A. Ambrogio, Corporate Secretary, GIANT GROUP, LTD., 9440 Santa Monica Boulevard, Suite 407, Beverly Hills, California 90210. The Corporate Secretary shall review all correspondence and shall regularly forward all correspondence to the designated board member or, in the case of correspondence directed to the Board as a group, to the Chairman of the Board. All correspondence from the stockholders relating to accounting, internal controls, or auditing matters will be forwarded to the Chairman of the Audit Committee. The Corporate Secretary will maintain a written log of all correspondence.

Code of Ethics and Conduct

The Company has adopted a formal Code of Ethics which is applicable to all employees, directors and officers of the Company or a Code of Conduct which is applicable to the Company's Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer.

Prior to the adoption of the Code of Ethics, the Company has followed an informal Code of Ethics and Conduct requiring any material transaction between the Company and the Chief Executive Officer and/or the Chief Financial Officer and between the Company and an outside third party must be approved by the board of directors. The Company believes this procedure is reasonably designed to deter material wrongdoing and promote honest and ethical conduct.

Compensation of Directors

Edgar Filing: GIANT GROUP LTD - Form PRER14A

Non-employee Directors receive compensation at a rate of $10,000 per annum, plus $500 for each Board meeting attended in person. Members of the Audit committee receive compensation for their services at the rate of $250 per meeting attended.

Non-employee Directors participate in the Company's Stock Option Plan for Non-Employee Directors, as amended (the Amended Director Plan), which authorizes the issuance of options to purchase up to an aggregate of 400,000 shares of Common Stock. Under the Amended Director Plan, adopted on May 20, 1996 (Adoption Date), options may be exercised in whole or in part any time after the grant date, terminate five years from the grant date and shall have an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the Common Stock on the grant date. In addition, shares of Common Stock, reserved but not issued due to the termination or expiration of the outstanding options, shall be available for options that may be granted prior to the termination of the plan.

Under the Amended Director Plan, non-employee Directors receive an option to purchase 5,000 shares upon their initial election to the Board. Upon their initial election to the Executive committee of the Board, non-employee Directors receive an option to purchase 5,000 shares and receive an option to purchase an additional 5,000 shares on the anniversary date of their election to the Executive committee. On the anniversary of the Adoption Date, non-employee Directors who served on the Board on May 20, 1996 receive an option to purchase 5,000 shares. Non-employee Directors who did not serve on the Board on May 20, 1996 receive an option to purchase 5,000 shares on the anniversary date of their election to the Board.

The Committee has implemented procedures to ensure that during the course of each fiscal year it devotes the attention that it deems necessary or appropriate to carry out its responsibilities. With respect to the Company's independent auditors, the Committee, among other things, discussed with Stonefield Josephson, LLP matters relating to its independence, including the disclosures made to the Committee as required by the Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1 (Independence Discussions With Audit Committees).

On the basis of these reviews and discussions, the Committee recommended to the board of directors that the Board approve the inclusion of the Company's audited financial statements in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2003, for filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
