2Q 2015 Portfolio Transformation Highlights

Obtained regulatory approvals to acquire RTI International Metals to grow titanium aerospace portfolio; RTI shareholders scheduled to vote July 21

The Company's plan to acquire RTI International Metals also progressed as planned. U.S. and European regulatory approvals were obtained in the second quarter and RTI shareholders are scheduled to vote on the merger on July 21.

Upon shareholder approval and close, RTI will broaden Alcoa's multi-material product suite to meet growing aerospace demand for titanium. With RTI, Alcoa's 2014 pro forma aerospace revenue increases by 13 percent to $5.6 billion. Alcoa expects RTI to contribute $1.2 billion in revenue in 2019, up from $794 million that RTI generated in 2014. Its profitability is expected to reach 25 percent EBITDA margin in 2019.

Jim Cramer

July 21st, we get the shareholder vote for RTI. I believe, but you can correct me, the amount of stock you're offering for RTI is set up an arbitrage that really crushed your company because the earnings are actually pretty good. Do you think that the closing of this company is going to cause a wholesale retransformation of the way analysts think about your stock? Because right now, you're viewed as a proxy for aluminum. On July 22nd, what will Alcoa look like?

Klaus Kleinfeld

Well, I mean, July 22nd, actually, the vote, the shareholder vote that you're referring to, is going to be on July 21st. And we've basically been saying we close by the end of July assuming all this goes well. We have the regulatory approvals in place for the closure. But we have to see what we've done in the last years. This is just one stone in all of the things. The first acquisition that doubled the content in jet engines. Very, very important, to create more values for our customers. TiTal the smaller acquisition. The organic growth that we've done in aerospace, the organic growth in automotive. The organic growth also in industrial gas turbines. That's a lot going on there. And the company that we are creating is real power house when it comes to lightweight multi-materials innovation. That's what we are creating there. At the same time, we have a commodity business that just has to live with what's going on there, but as we bring down the cost curve, doesn't matter what's going on in the world. One time it makes a lot of money, other times it brings in an okay amount of money, that's what we are creating here. And that's what you see also in the quarter.
