Item 2.06 Material Impairment.

On July 11, 2016, Alere Inc. (the Company) issued a press release announcing that, following a collaborative process with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the Company will be initiating a voluntary withdrawal of the Alere INRatio® and INRatio®2 PT/INR Monitoring System. A copy of the press release is attached to this Current Report on Form 8-K as Exhibit 99.1 and is incorporated herein by reference.

Although planning is not finalized, as a result of this voluntary withdrawal in the United States and related action outside the U.S., the Company expects to record approximately $70 $90 million of related charges in 2016. Of this amount, the Company expects an immediate non-cash impairment charge of approximately $20 $23 million, which is attributable primarily to write-offs related to the Company's INRatio inventory and production equipment. Additionally, in 2016, the Company expects to incur non-cash charges of approximately $33 $37 million in the form of accelerated depreciation of tangible assets, principally field-based INRatio monitors and accelerated amortization of intangible assets, principally customer lists. Finally, the Company expects to incur one-time cash expenditures during 2016 in connection with this voluntary withdrawal of approximately $17 $30 million largely attributable to the costs of removing the INRatio monitors from the market, including: notifications to users and return and disposal costs and other related amounts.

During the nine months ended September 30, 2015, revenue related to the INRatio® and INRatio®2 PT/INR Monitoring System was approximately $16.3 million.
