GBLC Email: Perspective on Letter to Shareholders

Aug 1, 2017

GBLC Colleagues,

Today P&G issued a letter to shareholders, our definitive proxy statement, and a news release regarding the campaign underway by Trian to gain a seat on P&G's Board of Directors. Leading up to our Shareholder Meeting on October 10, our shareholders – including each of you and the employees in your organizations who hold P&G shares – will receive multiple communications from both P&G and Trian. I will explain more about this in an email to employees today and the CEO Webcast this Thursday, and we will ask all employees (and all shareholders) to vote the BLUE P&G Proxy Card.

Adding Nelson Peltz of Trian on our Board has the potential to derail the transformation we're leading at P&G. They're making recommendations based on outdated information, and have not offered any new actionable ideas to drive value for P&G shareholders beyond the continued successful execution of the Company's ongoing strategies and plan.

We know that some shareholders, including some employees, will ask – why not – add Mr. Peltz to the Board. Mr. Peltz has a history of operating with a U.S.-centric approach, focusing companies on their U.S. operations with a short-term perspective. We believe he'd bring a narrow and outdated lens to our global business. P&G has a diverse and experienced Board that is actively overseeing our transformation and will continue to be agents of change to improve P&G's global performance. Our Board members were chosen based on rigorous criteria, with each member bringing a specific set of skills that is aligned with P&G's strategic priorities and ideal for overseeing a consumer products company with our global scale, reach and complexity. Our Board members have a balanced, long-term view and they operate within the Purpose, Values and Principles that have guided our company for 180 years. We don't believe – why not – is a compelling rationale to add someone to our Board who may not meet these criteria.

With a challenging but successful 16/17 behind us, now is the time to focus on accelerating results, and prevent anything from derailing the work that is delivering improvement. We met or exceeded our fiscal 2017 commitments. P&G results are improving. The plan is working. We need to continue to focus the entire organization on better meeting the needs of consumers, and delivering value to shareholders.

Thank you – for a strong finish to 16/17, continued improvement in 17/18, and your support and engagement with your organizations during this critical time. Please watch the webcast live this Thursday and ensure your organizations do the same. And please reach out to me or Jon with any questions.
