Other developments:

Recently, the Company announced that it canceled one of its newbuilding contracts with the Dayang shipyard due to excessive delays in the construction of the vessel (Hull DY 160) as specified in the contract. The Company has demanded the return of its progress payments and other expenses of approximately $8.6 million as specified in the newbuilding contract and secured by refund guaranties. The parties have referred the matter to arbitration.

Also the Company announced that it amended its newbuilding contract with the YSJ yard for the construction of a Kamsarmax vessel to provide the Company with the option until December 31, 2016 to change the type of the vessel to be built, buy another vessel built by the yard transferring any payments made under the newbuilding contract, or cancel the newbuilding contract without additional cost.

Furthermore, the Company announces that it has agreed to purchase M/V Aegean Express, a 1997-built 1,439 teu fully cellular containership for approximately $3 million, to replace M/V Cpt. Costas, a 1992-built containership which was sold during the second quarter of 2016.

Finally, the Company announces that the Company's Board authorized the establishment of an ATM offering of up to 15% of the Company's outstanding shares.

¹ Adjusted EBITDA, Adjusted net loss and Adjusted loss per share are not recognized measurements under GAAP. Refer to a subsequent section of the Press Release for the definitions and reconciliation of these measurements to the most directly comparable financial measures calculated and presented in accordance with U.S. GAAP.

Aristides Pittas, Chairman and CEO of Euroseas commented: While the charter markets for both sectors we operate remain challenging, we have managed to improve the liquidity of the Company by restructuring or refinancing some of our loans. Our revised loan profile combined with certain developments in our newbuilding contracts have reduced the required capital expenditures and significantly improved the liquidity outlook of Euroseas. We are now focused on how to take advantage of the low vessel price environment and find opportunities to expand and renew our fleet, as we have done with the replacement of M/V Cpt. Costas with a five year younger vessel for a marginally higher price.

We remain guardedly optimistic about the prospects of the markets mainly because of the significant adjustments underway in the supply of vessels both in terms of vessel scrapping but also in the form of newbuilding contract delays and cancellations, and furthermore, non-existent new order levels. Thus, on the chartering front, as we expect a modest improvement of both segments over the next twelve months, we are pursuing a chartering strategy focused on ensuring that our vessels remain employed and committed to shorter term charters.

Lately, we have seen an increased interest in our stock evidenced by a very significant increase in the trading liquidity. This is, of course, very positive and we hope it continues. The ATM that our Board approved is intended to facilitate new investors to participate in the Company and help keep the trading liquidity high, something essential for the longer term good of our shareholders. As we are not facing any cash needs, we may or may not execute fully on the ATM depending on whether we deem this would help our trading liquidity or assist in further vessel acquisitions or renewals.

Tasos Aslidis, Chief Financial Officer of Euroseas commented: The results of the second quarter of 2016 reflect the low levels of the containership and drybulk markets compared to the same quarter of 2015.

Total daily vessel operating expenses, including management fees, general and administrative expenses but excluding drydocking costs, averaged $6,065 per vessel per day during the second quarter of 2016 as compared to $6,145 per vessel per day for the same quarter of last year, and $6,096 per vessel per day for the first half of 2016 as compared to $6,342 per vessel per day for the same period of 2015, reflecting a 1.3% and 3.9% decline, respectively. As always, we want to emphasize that cost control remains a key component of our strategy. The results also include a loss on termination of a newbuilding contract we canceled related to expenses that cannot be refunded as a result of the cancelation (like management and supervision costs). Also, our results include an impairment charge of $14.0 million on our equity minority investment in Euromar LLC, our joint venture with two private equity firms, as a result of continuing depressed containership markets and new debt restructuring agreements between Euromar LLC and its banks.

As of June 30, 2016, our outstanding debt was $53.7 million (excluding the unamortized loan fees of $0.4 million) versus restricted and unrestricted cash of about $12.9 million. As of the same date, our scheduled debt repayments over the next 12 months amounted to about $11.1 million (excluding the unamortized loan fees). All our debt covenants are satisfied subject to completion of documentation of a restructuring agreement with one of our banks.

(1) Average number of vessels is the number of vessels that constituted the Company's fleet for the relevant period, as measured by the sum of the number of calendar days each vessel was a part of the Company's fleet during the period divided by the number of calendar days in that period.

(2) Calendar days. We define calendar days as the total number of days in a period during which each vessel in our fleet was in our possession including off-hire days associated with major repairs, drydockings or special or intermediate surveys or days of vessels in lay-up. Calendar days are an indicator of the size of our fleet over a period and affect both the amount of revenues and the amount of expenses that we record during that period.

(3) The scheduled off-hire days including vessels laid-up are days associated with scheduled repairs, drydockings or special or intermediate surveys or days of vessels in lay-up.

(4) Available days. We define available days as the total number of days in a period during which each vessel in our fleet was in our possession net of scheduled off-hire days. We use available days to measure the number of days in a period during which vessels were available to generate revenues.

(5) Commercial off-hire days. We define commercial off-hire days as days waiting to find employment.

(6) Operational off-hire days. We define operational off-hire days as days associated with unscheduled repairs or other off-hire time related to the operation of the vessels.

(7) Voyage days. We define voyage days as the total number of days in a period during which each vessel in our fleet was in our possession net of commercial and operational off-hire days. We use voyage days to measure the number of days in a period during which vessels actually generate revenues.

(8) Fleet utilization. We calculate fleet utilization by dividing the number of our voyage days during a period by the number of our available days during that period. We use fleet utilization to measure a company's efficiency in finding suitable employment for its vessels and minimizing the amount of days that its vessels are off-hire for reasons such as unscheduled repairs or days waiting to find employment.

(9) Fleet utilization, commercial. We calculate commercial fleet utilization by dividing our available days net of commercial off-hire days during a period by our available days during that period.

(10) Fleet utilization, operational. We calculate operational fleet utilization by dividing our available days net of operational off-hire days during a period by our available days during that period.

(11) Time charter equivalent, or TCE, is a measure of the average daily revenue performance of a vessel on a per voyage basis. Our method of calculating TCE is determined by dividing revenue generated from voyage charters net of voyage expenses by voyage days for the relevant time period. Voyage expenses primarily consist of port, canal and fuel costs that are unique to a particular voyage, which would otherwise be paid by the charterer under a time charter contract. TCE is a standard shipping industry performance measure used primarily to compare period-to-period changes in a shipping company's performance despite changes in the mix of charter types (i.e., spot voyage charters, time charters and bareboat charters) under which the vessels may be employed between the periods.

(12) Daily vessel operating expenses, which includes crew costs, provisions, deck and engine stores, lubricating oil, insurance, maintenance and repairs and management fees are calculated by dividing vessel operating expenses by fleet calendar days for the relevant time period. Drydocking expenses are reported separately.

(13) Daily general and administrative expense is calculated by dividing general and administrative expense by fleet calendar days for the relevant time period.

(14) Total vessel operating expenses, or TVOE, is a measure of our total expenses associated with operating our vessels. TVOE is the sum of vessel operating expenses excluding drydocking expenses and general and administrative expenses. Daily TVOE is calculated by dividing TVOE by fleet calendar days for the relevant time period.

(15) Drydocking expenses, which include expenses during drydockings that would have been capitalized and amortized under the deferral method divided by the fleet calendar days for the relevant period. Drydocking expenses could vary substantially from period to period depending on how many vessels underwent drydocking during the period.

Adjusted EBITDA Reconciliation:

Euroseas Ltd. considers Adjusted EBITDA to represent net earnings / (loss) before interest, income taxes, depreciation, amortization, gain / loss in derivatives and loss on termination of a newbuilding contract and impairment of investment in joint venture. Adjusted EBITDA does not represent and should not be considered as an alternative to net income /(loss) or cash flow from operations, as determined by United States generally accepted accounting principles, or U.S. GAAP, and the Company's calculation of Adjusted EBITDA may not be comparable to that reported by other companies. Adjusted EBITDA is included herein because it is a basis upon which the Company assesses its financial performance and liquidity position and because the Company believes that it presents useful information to investors regarding a company's ability to service and/or incur indebtedness. The Company's definition of Adjusted EBITDA may not be the same as that used by other companies in the shipping or other industries.

Adjusted net loss and Adjusted net loss per share Reconciliation:

Euroseas Ltd. considers Adjusted net loss to represent net loss before gain / loss on derivatives, loss on termination of new building contract and gain on sale of a vessel. Adjusted net loss and Adjusted net loss per share is included herein because we believe it assists our management and investors by increasing the comparability of the Company's fundamental performance from period to period by excluding the potentially disparate effects between periods of gain / loss on derivatives, loss on termination of new building contract and gain on sale of a vessel, which items may significantly affect results of operations between periods.

Adjusted Net loss and Adjusted net loss per share do not represent and should not be considered as an alternative to net loss or loss per share, as determined by U.S. GAAP, The Company's definition of Adjusted net loss and Adjusted net loss per share may not be the same as that used by other companies in the shipping or other industries.
