Firsthand Technology Value Fund, Inc. - Rule 14a-8 Proposal

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On December 27, 2013, we received a copy of a lengthy letter to you dated December 20, 2013 by Wendell M. Faria of Paul Hastings on behalf of Firsthand Technology Value Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") seeking your concurrence that the Fund may properly exclude the attached proposal to terminate the Investment Management Agreement between the Fund and Firsthand Capital Management, Inc. from its proxy materials. The Fund asserts that it may exclude our proposal based upon Rules 14a-8(i)(2) and 14a-8(i)(4) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

The 15-page letter with 32 footnotes must have cost the Fund a pretty penny. Rather than provide a detailed refutation of its alleged facts and legal analysis, we simply note that even if everything in the letter is correct, there is no basis to grant the Fund's requested relief.¹ Consequently, the Fund's request should be denied.

First, while the Fund asserts that "the proposal, if implemented, would cause the Fund to violate the requirements of Section 15(a)(3) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Act")," that is simply not true. Section 15(a)(3) requires that a registered investment company's investment advisory agreement must include a provision that it "may be terminated at any time...by vote of a majority of the outstanding voting securities of such company..." While the Fund alleges that if our proposal is presented, the result will be that other parties may violate, or will have violated, certain provisions of the Act, it does not explain why implementing the proposal will cause the Fund to violate the Act (as Rule 14a-8(i)(2) requires). To the contrary, excluding our proposal will cause the Fund to violate the Act. (The New Germany Fund, Inc., SEC No-Action Letter 1998 WL 229600 (May 8, 1998)).

Edgar Filing: Firsthand Technology Value Fund, Inc. - Form SC 13D/A

1-It is worth noting that with respect to the Fund's assertions regarding compliance with Section 12 of the Act, the staff has not responded to Special Opportunities Fund's June 2011 letter regarding the Janus ruling, nor has the Commission responded to its August 2013 request for a hearing. The Fund therefore is effectively asking the staff to (1) circumvent these procedural steps, (2) make a final determination that Special Opportunities Fund is not in compliance with Section 12, and (3) grant an unorthodox and unprecedented "two wrongs make a right" form of relief by permitting the Fund to avoid compliance with Rule 14a-8.

Secondly, the Fund suggests that if our proposal is implemented, we may in the future seek to obtain a benefit which is not shared by the other shareholders. Rule 14a-89i(4) allows a company to exclude a proposal only "if it is designed to result in a [special] benefit to" the proponent. (Emphasis added.) On the proposal's face, it is designed to benefit every shareholder by ridding the Fund of an investment advisor that has a demonstrably awful long term track record and is overpaid. Moreover, mere speculation about events that may occur after the current advisor is gone is insufficient to overcome the plain language of the proposal which evinces no disproportionate benefit for us vis-a-vis all other shareholders of the Fund.

In sum, the Fund's verbose and frivolous letter amounts to "a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing." Macbeth. We are sorry you have to waste the time to read it and respond to it.

Very truly yours,

Phillip Goldstein

Dear Mr. Leung:

Full Value Partners L.P., a member of the Bulldog Investors group that filed a Schedule 13D/A on April 15, 2013, is the beneficial owner of shares in Firsthand Technology Value Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") valued in excess of $2,000 and has held these shares for over 12 months.

Edgar Filing: Firsthand Technology Value Fund, Inc. - Form SC 13D/A

A verification letter from Wells Fargo Prime Services, LLC is enclosed. We intend to continue to hold our shares through the next meeting of stockholders (after the May 23, 2013 annual meeting).

We hereby submit the following proposal and supporting statement pursuant to rule 14a-8 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 for inclusion in management's proxy materials for the next meeting of stockholders for which this proposal is timely submitted.

RESOLVED: The Investment Management Agreement between the Fund and Firsthand Capital Management, Inc., (FCM) shall be terminated as soon as possible.

SUPPORTING STATEMENT

FCM is controlled by Kevin Landis. For managing the Fund, FCM is paid 2% per annum of its gross assets plus 20% of any net realized capital gains. Since the Fund has assets of about $200 million, FCM receives about $4 million per annum just for showing up. That is extraordinarily high compensation for managing a closed-end investment fund. We are not at all opposed to generously compensating a manager who has demonstrated outstanding long-term performance. In a recent Barron's interview, Leon Cooperman, whose $8.5 billion hedge fund has returned more than 14% (net) per annum to investors over more than two decades, put it this way: "If you are paying somebody two and 20, as opposed to 1%, you basically have a right to expect more from that person." We agree.

By contrast, Mr. Landis' long-term performance can only be described as abysmal. As an open-end fund, in the first quarter of 2000, the Fund's NAV peaked at about $135 per share. By April 2011, when it was converted to a closed-end fund, its NAV had fallen to about $27 per share. That is a decline of 80% in shareholder value over a period of eleven years. Nor have those shareholders who held on to their shares since April 2011 in hopes of improved performance, fared any better. Over the next two years, the market price of their shares fell another 30% while tech stocks generally performed very well!

We don't think Mr. Cooperman would approve of Mr. Landis' compensation. To put it bluntly, there are some people who should not be managing other people's money -- and Kevin Landis has demonstrated that he is one of those people. There is simply no way to spin the numbers and conclude that his performance has been anything but disastrous for shareholders.

We find it inexplicable that the board has not already terminated his firm's management agreement. That is why we are urging shareholders themselves to vote to terminate it. Then, the board can hire a new manager that has a track record of making money for investors, rather than losing money. Trust me, there are plenty of good investment managers that would love to manage the Fund and would do so for a much lower fee than FCM is paid.

In sum, we believe the buck stops with Kevin Landis. His horrendous long term performance is intolerable as is his lavish compensation. In our view, the best way to turn the Fund around is to replace FCM with a manager that has demonstrated an ability to make money for investors over the long term. That can be done very quickly.

Please take this opportunity to vote for this proposal.

Very truly yours,
/s/ Phillip Goldstein
