Independent Auditors Report

The Board of Directors

Linde Gas, LLC and Subsidiaries:

We have audited the accompanying balance sheet of Bulk Gas Operations (carved-out operation of Linde Gas, LLC and Subsidiaries) as of December 31, 2005 and the related statements of operations, capital employed, and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of Linde Gas, LLC and Subsidiaries management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Bulk Gas Operations (carved-out operation of Linde Gas, LLC and Subsidiaries) as of December 31, 2005 and the results of their operations and their cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

(1) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(a) Organization

Linde Gas, LLC and Subsidiaries (Linde LLC) operates primarily in the industrial and medical gas industries. Operations involve production and distribution of industrial, medical, and specialty gases. Linde LLC also distributes welding equipment and other products used with industrial and medical gases.

The Company's financial statements have been prepared in response to the purchase agreement entered into between Linde AG (Linde) and the BOC, Group, plc (BOC). As mandated by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), Linde LLC is required to sell its air separation units (ASUs) and other assets related to the production of liquid oxygen and nitrogen in eight locations across the United States (the Bulk Gas Operations). Bulk Gas Operations, (the Company) is a component of Linde Gas, LLC. The information included in these financial statements is based upon the draft Bulk Gas Business Equity Purchase Agreement by and among Holox (USA) B.V., Holox, Inc., Linde AG and Airgas, Inc. dated as of November 7, 2006.

(b) Basis of Presentation

The accompanying financial statements include the accounts of the Company that have been carved out of the consolidated financial statements of Linde LLC. The financial statements of the Company give effect to accounting and allocation policies established by Linde LLC management for purposes of these carve-out financial statements and are in accordance with the guidelines provided by Staff Accounting Bulletin 55 (SAB 55), Allocation of Expenses and Related Disclosures in Financial Statements of Subsidiaries, Divisions, and Lesser Business Components of Another Entity, of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC). The carve-out financial statements have been prepared on a basis that management believes to be reasonable to reflect the financial position, results of operations and cash flows of the bulk gas operations, including portions of Linde LLC corporate costs and administrative shared services.

The carve-out financial statements reflect the Company's assets, liabilities, results of operations and cash flows, including allocations by Linde LLC, on a historical cost basis.

Costs related entirely to bulk gas operations have been attributed directly to the Company in the accompanying financial statements. These expenses consist of direct production costs, personnel costs, utilities, taxes, amounts paid to third parties and all other direct costs associated with the physical site and operations of the Company.

(c) Methods of Allocation

(i) Cash

Bank and other cash accounts were identified with the respective business based on location and use of the account. No specific bank account was identified as relating to the bulk gas business. Certain bulk locations were identified as maintaining petty cash balances.

(ii) Accounts Receivable and Revenue

A customer list was used for summarization of revenues and for the calculation of accounts receivable. Open invoices for ship-to accounts that included sales of bulk gas product lines were included in the balance.

(iii) Inventories and Costs of Good Sold

Bulk gas inventories were specifically identified by plant location and valued at the lower of cost or market. Other supply inventories were included and allocated in a manner consistent with the use of the inventory. Production costs specific to the bulk gas operations were accumulated in cost centers and readily identifiable. These cost centers included substantially all the costs associated with the bulk operations including but not limited to supervision, benefits, power property taxes and other related expenses.

(iv) Prepaid Expenses and Other Current Assets

Specific identification was used where the assets were attributable solely to the bulk gas business. Where the asset contained categories in addition to bulk gas, allocation was made in a manner consistent with an appropriate expense ratio, headcount or other alternative method which properly expressed allocation to the bulk gas business.

(v) Property, Plant and Equipment

Plant assets related to the bulk gas business were specifically identified. Bulk tanks, capitalized installations and other related assets were identified by reference to the customer and included in the bulk gas business.

(vi) Other Assets

Other assets comprise deferred compensation arrangements, which were allocated based on participants employed within the bulk gas business.

(vii) Accounts Payable

Vendor records were analyzed to determine the appropriate allocation methodology. Where vendor indebtedness was by purchase order arrangement, specific identification was made by reference to the ASU. In other instances, allocation was made by reference to the resulting expense expressed as a percentage of the bulk gas expense divided by the total expense.

(viii) Accrued Liabilities

Bulk gas accruals were specifically identified where practical, but generally were allocated by a method, which, in management's opinion, appropriately considers the nature of the account. Methods of allocations included bulk gas expenses, headcount and sales volume.

(ix) Specifically Identifiable Operating Expenses

Costs which relate entirely to the bulk gas operations are entirely attributed to the Company. Such costs are generally summarized in discrete cost centers used to designate a function or physical site. Cost centers are used to accumulate substantially all operating costs related to that particular function or site, including direct production costs, personnel costs, utilities, maintenance, taxes and other direct operating expenses. Additionally, any costs incurred by Linde LLC or amounts paid to third parties which are specifically identifiable to bulk gas operations are attributed to the Company.

(x) Shared Operating Expenses

Linde LLC allocates the costs of certain corporate general and administrative services and shared services, including shared personnel, to the Company based on a variety of allocation methods. Shared services include executive management, legal, accounting, information technology, human resources, purchasing and supply, safety, insurance and maintenance. Shared services costs have been allocated to the Company primarily based on one of the following allocation methods: (1) percentage of total Linde LLC revenue, (2) percentage of Company revenue, (3) headcount, (4) number of site locations, or (5) combined metric based on percentage of working capital, headcount, sales and total assets. The management of Linde LLC determined the appropriate allocation method based on the nature of the shared service activity. These costs are included in the accompanying statement of operations within selling and administrative expenses and approximated $3,854 in 2005.

(xi) Income Taxes

Linde LLC is a limited liability company, which is not subject to federal income taxes. The taxable income of Linde LLC flows through to its owners as defined in its parents' ownership agreement.

Following the guidance provided in SAB 55, the Company's income tax provision has been determined using corporate statutory rates adjusted for the effect of temporary differences of the Company as though the Company were filing a separate return. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between financial reporting and tax bases of asset and liabilities and are measured using enacted tax rates and laws. However, the amounts allocated for income taxes in the accompanying financial statements are not necessarily indicative of the actual amount of income taxes that would have been recorded had the Company been held within a separate stand-alone entity.

(xii) Interest Expense

Interest expense is allocated based upon the ratio of the Company's capital employed as compared to Linde LLC's capital employed.

(d) Concentration of Credit Risks

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to concentrations of credit risk consist principally of trade receivables. Concentrations of credit risk are limited due to the Company's large number of customers and their dispersion across many industries throughout the United States. Credit terms granted to customers are generally net 30 days.

(e) Revenue Recognition

Revenue is recognized when: a firm sales agreement exists; product is shipped or services are provided to customers; and collectibility of the fixed or determinable sales price is reasonably assured. For deposits or prepayments received by the Company for product that is stored at a company facility, revenue is deferred and recognized when the product is shipped.

Rental fees on bulk gas storage tanks and other equipment are recognized when earned. The associated revenue streams are classified as rental revenue and represent nine percent (9%) of total revenue. Under long-term agreements, rental fees collected in advance are deferred and recognized on a straight-line basis over the terms of the agreement. Service revenues are recognized when earned as the services are provided.

For agreements that contain multiple deliverable products and/or services, amounts assigned to each component are based on its objectively determined fair value, such as the sales price for the component when it is sold separately.

Sales returns and allowances are not a normal practice in the industry and are de minimus.

(f) Cost of Goods Sold

Costs of goods sold principally consist of direct material costs, direct labor, freight and manufacturing overhead.

(g) Selling and Administrative Expenses

Selling and administrative expenses consist of labor and overhead associated with the purchasing, marketing and distribution of the Company's products, as well as costs associated with a variety of administrative functions such as legal, accounting, human resources and facility-related expenses.

(h) Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with United States generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(i) Trade Accounts Receivable

Trade accounts receivable are recorded at the invoiced amount and do not bear interest. The allowance for doubtful accounts is the Company's estimate of the amount of probable credit losses in the Company's existing accounts receivable. Account balances are charged off against the allowance after all means of collection have been exhausted and the potential for recovery is considered remote. The Company does not have any off-balance-sheet credit exposure related to its customers.

(j) Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost or market. Cost is determined using the first-in, first-out method.

(k) Property, Plant, and Equipment

Property, plant and equipment are recorded at cost. Repairs and maintenance are charged to expense as incurred, while betterments that extend useful lives are capitalized. Depreciation is provided for on a straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Estimated useful lives for financial reporting purposes are as follows:

Building and improvements	25 years
Machinery and equipment	3 to 20 years

Notes to Financial Statements

December 31, 2005

(Dollars in thousands)

On a continuing basis, the Company reviews the carrying value of property and equipment for impairment in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 144, Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets (SFAS 144). If events or changes in circumstances were to indicate that an asset carrying value may not be recoverable, a write-down of the asset would be recorded through a charge to operations.

Depreciation and amortization expense for the year ended December 31, 2005 was $27,057. Machinery and equipment includes leased equipment under capital lease of $968, net of accumulated amortization of $500 at December 31, 2005.

Disposals are removed at cost less accumulated depreciation with the resulting gain or loss reflected in operations.

Leasehold improvements in connection with operating leases of real property are amortized over the shorter of their economic lives or the lease term. Rent escalations, rent holidays, rent concessions and leasehold improvement incentives in connection with operating leases of real property are amortized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

(l) Goodwill

Goodwill is the cost in excess of fair market value of net assets of acquired businesses and is not amortized. In accordance with SFAS No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets (SFAS 142), goodwill is evaluated at least annually for impairment.

SFAS 142 establishes accounting and reporting standards for goodwill and other intangible assets in that goodwill and other intangible assets that have indefinite useful lives will not be amortized, but will be tested at least annually for impairment.

Under SFAS 142, the Company is required to test all existing goodwill for impairment on a reporting unit basis. A fair value approach is used to test goodwill for impairment. An impairment charge is recognized for the amount, if any, by which the carrying amount exceeds its implied fair value. Fair value of the Company and the related implied fair value of goodwill were established using discounted cash flows.

As of December 31, 2005, the Company completed the goodwill impairment test in accordance with SFAS 142, which resulted in no impairment charge. There were no changes in the carrying amount of goodwill for the year ended December 31, 2005.

(m) Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The carrying amounts of accounts and notes receivable, related party receivables, prepaid expenses, accounts payable, related party payables and accrued expenses approximate fair value because of the short maturity of those instruments. The carrying value of the Company's long-term debt is considered to approximate the fair value of those instruments based on the borrowing rates currently available to the Company for loans with similar terms and maturities.

(n) Asset Retirement Obligations

The fair value of a liability for an asset retirement obligation is recognized in the period when the asset is placed in service. The fair value of the liability is estimated using discounted cash flows. In subsequent periods, the retirement obligation is accreted to its future value or the estimate of the obligation at the asset retirement date. When the asset is placed in service, a corresponding retirement asset equal to the fair value of the retirement obligation is also recorded as part of the carrying amount of the related long-lived asset and depreciated over the asset's useful life. The following table presents the activity for the asset retirement obligations for the years ended December 31, 2005:

Beginning balance	$ 2,934
Additional liabilities incurred	360
Liabilities settled in current period	(320)
Accretion expense	147
Ending balance	$ 3,121

The current portion of this obligation is $460 and is included in accrued liabilities. The remainder is included in other long-term liabilities.

(o) Derivative Financial Instruments

The Company uses derivative instruments to limit exposure to variability related to the purchase of certain production inputs, propane and electricity. The Company accounts for derivatives pursuant to SFAS No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, as amended, which requires that all derivative instruments be recorded on the balance sheet at their respective fair values.

The accounting for changes in the fair value of a derivative depends on the use of the derivative, which is designated on the date a derivative contract is entered into. To the extent that a derivative is effective as a cash flow hedge of an exposure to future changes in value, the change in fair value of the derivative is deferred in other comprehensive income (a component of capital employed). Any portion considered to be ineffective will be reported in earnings immediately. To the extent that a derivative is effective as a hedge of an exposure to future changes in fair value, the change in the derivative's fair value will be offset in the statement of operations. The Company does not hold derivative instruments or engage in hedging activities for purposes of speculation.

The fair values of all outstanding derivative instruments were determined using quoted market prices. At December 31, 2005, the Company's contracts are not designated as hedges under SFAS No. 133. The fair value of the Company's derivative contracts at December 31, 2005, was immaterial.

(p) Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements

In November 2004, the Financial Accounting Standard Board (FASB) issued SFAS No. 151, Inventory Costs (SFAS 151), which requires recognizing a current-period charge for abnormal amounts of idle facility expense, freight, handling costs, and wasted material (spoilage). SFAS 151 is effective for fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2005, with earlier application encouraged. The Company adopted this standard effective January 1, 2006 and the adoption of this statement had no material impact on the Company's financial statements.

In December 2004, the FASB issued SFAS No. 153, Exchanges of Nonmonetary Assets, an amendment of APB Opinion No. 29 (SFAS 153). SFAS 153 specifies the criteria required to record a nonmonetary exchange using the carryover basis. The provisions of SFAS 153 are effective for nonmonetary asset exchanges occurring in fiscal periods beginning after June 15, 2005. The Company adopted this standard effective January 1, 2006 and the adoption of this statement had no material impact on the Company's financial statements.

In May 2005, the FASB issued SFAS No. 154, Accounting for Changes and Error Corrections-A Replacement of APB Opinion No. 20 and FASB Statement No. 3 (SFAS 154). SFAS 154 requires retrospective application to prior period financial statements of changes in accounting principle, unless it is impracticable to determine either the period-specific effects or the cumulative effect of the change. This standard will generally not apply with respect to adoption of new accounting standards, as new accounting standards usually include specific transition provisions, and will not override transition provisions contained in new or existing accounting literature. The Company adopted this standard effective January 1, 2006 and the adoption of this statement had no material impact on the Company's financial statements.

In September 2005, the Emerging Issues Task Force ratified EITF No. 04-13, Accounting for Purchases and Sales of Inventory with the Same Counterparty. This issue addresses the circumstances under which two or more inventory purchase and sale transactions with the same counterparty should be viewed as a single exchange transaction and whether there are circumstances under which such nonmonetary exchanges should be accounted for at fair value. The adoption of this interpretation is effective for fiscal periods beginning after March 15, 2006 and is not expected to have a material impact on the Company's financial statements.

The FASB published Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes (Interpretation No. 48) in June 2006. This interpretation requires companies to determine whether it is more likely than not that a tax position will be sustained upon examination by the appropriate taxing authorities before any part of the benefit can be recorded in the financial statements. Interpretation No. 48 also provides guidance on derecognition, classification, accounting in interim periods, and disclosure requirements for tax contingencies. This interpretation is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2006. The Company is currently assessing the impact that Interpretation No. 48 will have on the Company's financial statements.

The components of deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities at December 31, 2005 are as follows:

Deferred tax assets
Accounts receivable	$ 74
Inventory	85
Accrued liabilities	334
Other	15
 Total deferred tax assets	 508

 Total deferred tax liabilities	 (50,878)
 Net deferred tax liabilities	 $ (50,370)

In assessing the realizability of deferred tax assets, management considers whether it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized. The ultimate realization of deferred tax assets is dependent upon the generation of future taxable income during the periods in which those temporary differences become deductible. Management considers the schedules reversal of deferred tax liabilities, projected future taxable income, and tax planning strategies in making this assessment. Based upon the level of historical taxable income and projections for future taxable income over the periods in which the deferred tax assets are deductible, management believes it is more likely than not that the Company will realize the benefits of these deductible differences.
