ITEM 1. BUSINESS

GENERAL

Sterling Bancorp ("the parent company" or "the Registrant") is a bank holding company and a financial holding company as defined by the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (the "BHCA"), as amended, which was organized in 1966. Throughout the report, the terms "the Company" or "Sterling" refer to Sterling Bancorp and its subsidiaries. Sterling provides a full range of financial products and services, including business and consumer loans, commercial and residential mortgage lending and brokerage, asset-based financing, factoring/accounts receivable management services, trade financing, equipment leasing, deposit services, trust and estate administration and investment management services. The Company has operations in the metropolitan New York area, North Carolina and many mid-Atlantic states, and conducts business throughout the United States. The parent company owns all of the outstanding shares of Sterling National Bank ("the bank") - its principal subsidiary, and all of the outstanding shares of Sterling Banking Corporation and Sterling Financial Services Company, Inc. ("finance subsidiaries") and Sterling Bancorp Trust I ("trust"). Sterling National Mortgage Company, Inc. ("SNMC"), Sterling National Servicing, Inc. ("SNS-Virginia"), Sterling Factors Corporation ("Factors"), Sterling Trade Services, Inc. ("Trade Services"), and Sterling Holding Company of Virginia, Inc. are wholly owned subsidiaries of the bank. Until 1998, Factors was a finance subsidiary of the Registrant. Sterling Trade Services, Inc. was formed on April 23, 2001 and owns all of the outstanding common shares of Sterling National Asia Limited, Hong Kong, which was also formed on that date. Sterling

Edgar Filing: STERLING BANCORP - Form 10-K

Holding Company of Virginia, Inc. was formed as of December 21, 1998 and owns all of the outstanding common shares of Sterling Real Estate Holding Company, Inc., which was formed as of March 1, 1997. Sterling Bancorp Trust I was formed as of February 4, 2002. Segment information appearing in Note 22 beginning on page 41 of the Company's Annual Report to security holders for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2002 ("the 2002 Annual Report") is incorporated by reference herein.

Our Internet address is www.sterlingbancorp.com and the investor relations section of our website is located at www.sterlingbancorp.com/ir/investor.cfm. We make available free of charge, on or through the investor relations section of our website, annual reports on Form 10-K, quarterly reports on Form 10-Q and current reports on Form 8-K and amendments to those reports filed or furnished pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as soon as reasonably practicable after we electronically file such material with, or furnish it to, the Securities and Exchange Commission.

GOVERNMENT MONETARY POLICY

The Company is affected by the credit policies of monetary authorities, including the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. An important element of the Federal Reserve System is to regulate the national supply of bank credit. Among the instruments of monetary policy used by the Federal Reserve are open market operations in U.S. Government securities, changes in the discount rate, reserve requirements on member bank deposits, and funds availability regulations. The monetary policies of the Federal Reserve have in the past had a significant effect on operations of financial institutions, including the bank, and will continue to do so in the future. Changing conditions in the national economy and in the money markets make it difficult to predict future changes in interest rates, deposit levels, loan demand or their effects on the business and earnings of the Company. Foreign activities of the Company are not considered to be material.

BUSINESS OPERATIONS

THE BANK

Sterling National Bank was organized in 1929 under the National Bank Act and commenced operations in New York City. The bank maintains eight offices in New York, seven offices in New York city (four branches and an International Banking Facility in Manhattan and two branches in Queens) and one branch in Nassau County in Great Neck, New York. The executive office is located at 650 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York.

The bank provides a full range of banking and financial services products. These products and services include commercial lending, asset-based financing, factoring/accounts receivable management, equipment leasing, commercial and residential mortgage lending and brokerage, international trade financing, deposit services, trust estate administration, investment management and investment services. Business lending, depository and related financial services are furnished to a wide range of customers in diverse industries, including commercial, industrial and financial companies, and government and non-profit entities.

Commercial Lending, Asset-Based Financing and Factoring/Accounts Receivable Management. The bank provides loans to small and medium sized businesses. The businesses are diversified across industries, and the loans generally range in size from $250,000 to $10 million. Business loans can be tailored to meet customers' specific long- and short-term needs, and include secured and unsecured lines of credit, business installment loans, business lines of credit, and debtor-in-possession financing. Our loans are often collateralized by assets, such as accounts receivable, inventory, marketable securities, other liquid collateral, equipment and other assets. Through its factoring subsidiary, the bank provides accounts receivable management services. Factors purchases clients' accounts receivable, assumes credit risk on approved orders and handles credit, collection and bookkeeping. Income for these services is derived from commission charges for receivables serviced and interest charged on advances to the client. For these services, Factors receives factoring commissions paid by the clients plus interest charged on advances. The accounts receivable factored are for clients primarily engaged in the apparel and textile industries. As of December 31, 2002, the outstanding loan balance for commercial and industrial lending was $459.1 million, representing approximately 57% of the bank's total loan portfolio.

Equipment Leasing. The bank offers equipment leasing services in the New York metropolitan area and across the United States through direct leasing programs, third party sources and vendor programs. The bank finances small and medium-sized equipment leases with an average term of 24 to 30 months. At December 31, 2002, the outstanding loan balance for equipment leases was approximately $128.7 million, and equipment leases comprised approximately 16% of the bank's total loan portfolio.

Residential and Commercial Mortgages. The bank's real estate loan portfolio consists of real estate loans on one-to-four family residential properties and commercial properties. The residential mortgage banking and brokerage business is conducted through SNMC offices located principally in New York, North Carolina and many mid-Atlantic states. The mortgage company originates conforming residential mortgage loans throughout the tri-state metropolitan area, as well as in Virginia and other mid-Atlantic states, for resale, and non-conforming residential mortgage loans, for its own portfolio and for resale. Commercial real estate financing is offered on income-producing, investor properties and owner-occupied properties, professional co-ops and condos through our real estate lending department. At December 31, 2002, the outstanding loan balance for real estate mortgage loans was $185.4 million, representing approximately 23% of the bank's total loans outstanding.

International Trade Finance. Through its international division, International Banking Facility and Hong Kong trade services subsidiary, the bank offers financial services to its customers and correspondents in the world's major financial centers. These services consist of financing import and export transactions, issuance of letters of credit and creation of banker's acceptances. In addition to its direct worldwide correspondent banking relationships, active bank account relationships are maintained with leading foreign banking institutions in major financial centers.

Trust Services. The bank's trust department provides a variety of fiduciary, investment management, custody and advisory and corporate agency services to individuals, corporations and foundations. The bank acts as trustee for pension, profit-sharing, 401(k) and other employee benefit plans and personal trusts and estates. For corporations, the bank acts as trustee, transfer agent, registrar and in other corporate agency capacities.

There are no industry concentrations exceeding 10% of gross loans, in the commercial and industrial loan portfolio. Approximately 68% of the bank's loans are to borrowers located in the metropolitan New York area. The bank has no foreign loans.

The composition of income from the operations of the bank and its subsidiaries for the years ended: [1] December 31, 2002 included interest and fees on commercial and other loans (45%), interest and dividends on investment securities (31%) and other (24%); [2] December 31, 2001 included interest and fees on commercial and other loans (53%), interest and dividends on investment securities (27%), and other (20%); [3] December 31, 2000 included interest and fees on commercial and other loans (54%), interest and dividends on investment securities (27%), and other (19%).

At December 31, 2002, the bank and its subsidiaries had 428 employees, consisting of 152 officers and 276 supervisory and clerical employees. The bank considers its relations with its employees to be satisfactory.

PARENT COMPANY AND FINANCE SUBSIDIARIES

The parent company, through its finance subsidiary - Sterling Financial Services Company ("Sterling Financial"), makes loans that are secured by personal property, accounts receivable or other collateral; occasionally unsecured advances are provided to its customers.

Dealer Receivable Financing. Through Sterling Financial, we provide loans to independent dealers who market products, such as housewares, appliances, automobiles and educational material to consumers on an installment basis with repayment terms between 12 and 48 months. We administer these installment contracts for the dealer by providing billing, payment processing and other bookkeeping services. We generally lend up to 80% of the value of the borrower's collateral. More than 65% of the payments are received electronically.

The composition of income (excluding equity in undistributed net income of the bank) of the parent company and its finance subsidiaries for the years ended: [1] December 31, 2002 included interest and fees on loans (24%), dividends, interest and service fees (74%) and other (2%); [2] December 31, 2001 included interest and fees on loans (32%), dividends, interest and service fees (66%), and other (2%); [3] December 31, 2000 included interest and fees on loans (42%), dividends, interest and service fees (55%), and other (3%). As of January 1, 2001, Sterling Financial became a subsidiary of the parent company. Prior to that date, Sterling Financial was a division of the parent company.

At December 31, 2002, the parent company and its finance subsidiaries employed 36 persons consisting of 8 officers with the balance of the employees performing supervisory and clerical functions. The parent company and its finance subsidiaries consider employee relations to be satisfactory.

COMPETITION

There is intense competition in all areas in which the Company conducts its business. The Company competes with banks and other financial institutions, including savings and loans associations, savings banks, finance companies, and credit unions. To a limited extent, the company also competes with other providers of financial services, such as money market mutual funds, brokerage firms, consumer finance companies and insurance companies. Competition is based on a number of factors, including prices, interest rates, service, availability of products, and geographic location.

The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999 (the "Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act") has expanded the permissible activities of a bank holding company. The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act allows qualifying bank holding companies to elect to be treated as financial holding companies. A financial holding company may engage in activities that are financial in nature or are incidental or complementary to financial activities. The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act also eliminated restrictions, adopted in the 1930's, which prevented banking, insurance and securities firms from fully entering each other's business. While it is uncertain what the full impact of the legislation will be over time, it is likely to result in further consolidation in the financial services industry. In addition, removal of these restrictions will likely increase the number and type of market entrants providing banking services and thereby create additional competition. However, the Company's management cannot currently predict the full impact of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act on the Company. For more information regarding the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act see "Supervision and Regulation - Financial Services Modernization Legislation" below.

SUPERVISION AND REGULATION

GENERAL

The banking industry is highly regulated. Statutory and regulatory controls are designed primarily for the protection of depositors and the banking system, and not for the purpose of protecting the shareholders of the parent company. The following discussion is not intended to be a complete list of all the activities regulated by the banking laws or of the impact of such laws and regulations on the bank. It is intended only to briefly summarize some material provisions.

Sterling Bancorp is a bank holding company and a financial holding company under the BHCA, as amended, and is subject to supervision, examination and reporting requirements of the Board of Governors of The Federal Reserve System ("Federal Reserve Board").

As a national bank, the bank is principally subject to supervision, examination and reporting requirements of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency ("OCC"), as well as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC"). Insured banks, including the bank, are subject to extensive regulation of many aspects of their business. These regulations, among other things, relate to: (a) the nature and amount of loans that may be made by the bank and the rates of interest that may be charged; (b) types and amounts of other investments; (c) branching; (d) permissible activities; (e) reserve requirements; and (f) dealings with officers, directors and affiliates.

Sterling Banking Corporation is subject to supervision and regulation by the Banking Department of the State of New York.

BANK HOLDING COMPANY REGULATION

The BHCA requires the prior approval of the Federal Reserve Board for the acquisition by a bank holding company of more than 5% of the voting stock or substantially all of the assets of any bank or bank holding company. Also, under the BHCA, bank holding companies are prohibited, with certain exceptions, from engaging in, or from acquiring more than 5% of the voting stock of any company engaging in, activities other than: (1) banking or managing or controlling banks, (2) furnishing services to or performing services for their subsidiaries, or (3) activities which the Federal Reserve Board has determined to be so closely related to banking or managing or controlling banks as to be a proper incident thereto.

Edgar Filing: STERLING BANCORP - Form 10-K

As discussed below under "Financial Holding Company Regulation", the BHCA was amended by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999 to permit a broader range of activities for bank holding companies that qualify as "financial holding companies".

FINANCIAL HOLDING COMPANY REGULATION

On November 12, 1999, the President signed the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act into law. Effective as of March 11, 2000, the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act:

- allows bank holding companies, the depository institution subsidiaries of which meet management, capital and CRA standards, to engage in a substantially broader range of nonbanking financial activities than was previously permissible, including: (a) insurance underwriting and agency, (b) making merchant banking investments in commercial companies, (c) securities underwriting, dealing and market making, and (d) sponsoring mutual funds and investment companies;
- allows insurers and other financial services companies to acquire banks; and
- establishes the overall regulatory structure applicable to bank holding companies that also engage in insurance and securities operations.

In order for a bank holding company to engage in the broader range of activities that are permitted by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, (1) all of its depository subsidiaries must be and remain well-capitalized and well-managed and have received at least a satisfactory CRA rating and (2) it must file a declaration with the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System that it elects to be a "financial holding company".

I-5

Requirements and standards to remain "well-capitalized" are discussed below. To maintain financial holding company status, the bank must have at least a "satisfactory" rating under the Community Reinvestment Act (the "CRA"). Under the CRA, during examinations of the bank, the OCC is required to assess the bank's record of meeting the credit needs of the communities services by the bank, including low- and moderate-income communities. Banks are given one of four ratings under the CRA: "outstanding," "satisfactory," "needs to improve" or "substantial noncompliance." The bank received a rating of outstanding on the most recent exam completed by the OCC.

Pursuant to an election made under the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, the parent company has been designated as a financial holding company. As a financial holding company, Sterling Bancorp may conduct, or acquire a company (other than a U.S. depository institution or foreign bank) engaged in, activities that are "financial in nature," as well as additional activities that the Federal Reserve determines (in the case of incidental activities, in conjunction with the Department of the Treasury) are incidental or complementary to financial activities, without the prior approval of the Federal Reserve. Under the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, activities that are financial in nature include insurance, securities underwriting and dealing, merchant banking, and sponsoring mutual funds and investment companies. Under the new merchant banking authority added by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, financial holding companies may invest in companies that engage in activities that are not otherwise permissible "financial" companies, subject to certain limitations, including that the financial holding company makes the investment with the intention of limiting the investment duration and does not manage the company on a day-to-day basis.

Edgar Filing: STERLING BANCORP - Form 10-K

Financial holding companies that do not continue to meet all the requirements for financial holding company status will, depending on which requirement they fail to meet, lose the ability to undertake new activities or acquisitions that are financial in nature and may also lose the ability to continue those activities that are not generally permissible for bank holding companies. If the parent company ceases to so qualify it would be required to obtain the prior approval of the Federal Reserve to engage in non-banking activities or to acquire more than 5% of the voting stock of any company that is engaged in non-banking activities. With certain exceptions, the Federal Reserve can only provide prior approval to applications involving activities that it had previously determined, by regulation or order, are so closely related to banking as to be properly incident thereto. Such activities are more limited than the range of activities that are deemed "financial in nature".

PAYMENT OF DIVIDENDS AND TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

While the parent company generates income from its own operations, it also depends for its cash requirements on funds maintained or generated by its subsidiaries, principally the bank. Such sources have been adequate to meet the parent company's cash requirements throughout its history.

Various legal restrictions limit the extent to which the bank can fund its parent company and its nonbank subsidiaries. All national banks are limited in the payment of dividends without the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency to an amount not to exceed the net profits (as defined) for that year to date combined with its retained net profits for the preceding two calendar years. Under the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 ("FDICIA"), a depository institution, such as the bank, may not pay dividends if payment would cause it to become undercapitalized or if it is already undercapitalized. The payment of dividends by the parent company and the bank may also be affected or limited by other factors, such as the requirement to maintain adequate capital.

Federal laws strictly limit the ability of banks to engage in transactions with their affiliates, including their bank holding companies. Such transactions between a subsidiary bank and its parent company or the nonbank subsidiaries of the bank holding company are limited to 10 percent of a bank subsidiary's capital and surplus and, with respect to such parent company and all such nonbank subsidiaries, to an aggregate of 20 percent of the bank subsidiary's capital and surplus. Further, loans and extensions of credit generally are required to be secured by eligible collateral in specified amounts. Federal law also requires that all transactions between a bank and its affiliates be on terms as favorable to the bank as transactions with non-affiliates.

Federal law also limits a bank's authority to extend credit to its directors, executive officers and 10 percent shareholders, as well as to entities controlled by such persons. Among other things, extensions of credit to insiders are required to be made on terms that are substantially the same as, and follow credit underwriting procedures that are not less stringent than, those prevailing for comparable transactions with unaffiliated persons and that do not involve more than the normal risk of repayment or present other unfavorable features and may not exceed certain limitations on the amount of credit extended to such persons, individually and in the aggregate, which limits are based, in part, on the amount of the bank's capital.

Banks are subject to prohibitions on certain tying arrangements. A depository institution is prohibited, subject to some exceptions, from extending credit to or offering any other service, or fixing or varying the consideration for such extension of credit or service, on the condition that the customer obtain some additional service from the institution or its affiliates or not obtain services of a competitor of the institution.

CAPITAL ADEQUACY

The Company and the bank are subject to risk-based capital regulations. The purpose of these regulations is to quantitatively measure capital against risk-weighted assets, including off-balance sheet items. These regulations define the elements of total capital into Tier 1 and Tier 2 components and establish minimum ratios of 4% for Tier 1 capital and 8% for Total Capital for capital adequacy purposes. Supplementing these regulations is a leverage requirement. This requirement establishes a minimum leverage ratio, (at least 3% to 5%) which is calculated by dividing Tier 1 capital by adjusted quarterly average assets (after deducting goodwill).

In addition, the Company and the bank are subject to the provisions of FDICIA which imposes a number of mandatory supervisory measures and establishes a system of prompt corrective action to resolve the problems of undercapitalized institutions. Among other matters, FDICIA establishes five capital categories of "well capitalized", "adequately capitalized", "undercapitalized", "significantly undercapitalized", and "critically undercapitalized". Such classifications are used by regulatory agencies to determine, in part, a bank's deposit insurance premium, and to consider applications authorizing institutions to increase their asset size or otherwise expand business activities or acquire other institutions. Banks that are not adequately capitalized are subject to significant restrictions and requirements that increase as capital levels deteriorate and may not accept brokered deposits.

Under the provisions of FDICIA, a "well capitalized" institution must maintain minimum leverage, Tier 1 and Total Capital ratios of 5%, 6% and 10%, respectively. At December 31, 2002, the capital ratios for the Company and the bank exceeded the requirements for "well capitalized" institutions.

The table presenting capital and ratios for the Company and the bank as of December 31, 2002 and 2001 appears in Note 21 beginning on page 40 of the Company's 2002 Annual Report and is incorporated by reference herein.

EQUITY INVESTMENT IN NON-FINANCIAL COMPANIES

On April 1, 2002, new federal regulations governing the regulatory capital treatment of equity investments in nonfinancial companies went into effect. The federal rules require a series of marginal capital charges on covered equity investments that increase with the level of those investments as a percentage of the Company's and the bank's Tier 1 capital.

The rules have not had and management does not expect that the rules will have a material effect on the capital requirements or strategic plans of the Company and the bank.

BIS GUIDELINES

The U.S. federal bank regulatory agencies' risk-capital guidelines are based upon the 1988 capital accord of the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision (the "BIS"). The BIS is a committee of central banks and bank supervisors/regulators from the major industrialized countries that develops broad policy guidelines that each country's supervisors can use to determine the supervisory policies they apply. In January 2001 the BIS released a proposal to replace the 1988 capital accord with a new capital accord that would set capital requirements for operational risk and refine the existing capital requirements for credit risk and market risk exposures. Operational risk is defined to mean the risk of direct or indirect loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems or from external events. The 1988 capital accord does not include separate capital requirements for operational risk. The BIS has stated that its objective is to finalize a new capital accord in the fourth quarter of 2003 and for member countries to implement the new accord at year end 2006. The ultimate timing for the new accord, and the specifics of capital assessments for addressing operational risk, are uncertain. However, the Company expects that a new capital accord addressing operational risk will eventually be adopted by the BIS and implemented by the U.S. federal bank regulatory agencies. The Company cannot determine whether new capital requirements that may arise out of a new BIS capital accord will increase or decrease minimum capital requirements applicable to it and its subsidiaries.

SUPPORT OF THE BANK

The Federal Reserve Board has stated that a bank holding company should serve as a source of financial and managerial strength to its subsidiary banks. As a result, the Federal Reserve Board may require the parent company to stand ready to use its resources to provide adequate capital funds to its banking subsidiaries during periods of financial stress or adversity. This support may be required at times by the Federal Reserve Board even though not expressly required by regulation.

I-8

FDIC INSURANCE

Under the FDIC's risk-related insurance assessment system, insured depository institutions may be required to pay annual assessments to the FDIC being based on the institution's risk classification. An institution's risk classification is based on assignment of the institution by the FDIC to one of three capital groups and to one of three supervisory groups. The three supervisory groups are Group "A" financially solid institutions with only a few minor weaknesses, Group "B" institutions with weaknesses which, if uncorrected, could cause substantial deterioration of the institution and increased risk to the insurance fund and Group "C" institutions with a substantial probability of loss to the fund absent effective corrective action.

The three capital categories are well capitalized; adequately capitalized; and undercapitalized. These three categories are substantially the same as the prompt corrective action categories previously described, with the undercapitalized category including institutions that are undercapitalized, significantly undercapitalized, and critically undercapitalized for prompt corrective action purposes. A bank's capital and supervisory subgroup is confidential and may not be disclosed. Assessment rates for deposit insurance currently range from zero basis points to 27 basis points per $100 of deposits. Any increase in insurance assessments could have an adverse impact on the earnings of insured institutions, including the bank. Because of favorable loss experience and a healthy reserve ratio in the Bank Insurance Fund maintained by the FDIC, well capitalized and well managed banks, including the bank, have in recent years paid no premiums for FDIC insurance. In the future, even well capitalized and well managed banks may be required to pay premiums on deposit insurance. The amount of any such premiums will depend on the outcome of legislative and regulatory initiatives as well as BIF loss experience and other factors.

Edgar Filing: STERLING BANCORP - Form 10-K

In addition, the bank is required to make payments for the servicing of obligations of the Financing Corporation ("FICO") issued in connection with the resolution of savings and loan associations, so long as such obligations remain outstanding. The current FICO annual assessment rate is 1.68 cents per $100 of deposits.

Under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, insurance of deposits may be terminated by the FDIC upon a finding that the institution has engaged in unsafe and unsound practices, is in an unsafe or unsound condition to continue operations, or has violated any applicable law, regulation, rule, order, or condition imposed by the FDIC.

In addition, the Federal Deposit Insurance Act provides that a depository institution insured by the FDIC can be held liable by the FDIC for any loss incurred or reasonably expected to be incurred in connection with the default of a commonly controlled FDIC insured depository institution or in connection with any assistance provided by the FDIC to a commonly controlled institution "in danger of default" (as defined).

In its resolution of the problems of an insured depository institution in default or in danger of default, the FDIC is generally required to satisfy its obligations to insured depositors at the least possible cost to the deposit insurance fund. In addition, the FDIC may not take any action that would have the effect of increasing the losses to the deposit insurance fund by protecting depositors for more than the insured portion of deposits (generally $100,000) or creditors other than depositors. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 provided for a domestic depositor preference upon liquidation or dissolution of an insured bank.

SAFETY AND SOUNDNESS STANDARDS

Federal banking agencies promulgate safety and soundness standards relating to, among other things, internal controls, information systems and internal audit systems, loan documentation, credit underwriting, interest rate exposure, asset growth, compensation, fees, and benefits. With respect to internal controls, information systems and internal audit systems, the standards describe the functions that adequate internal controls and information systems must be able to perform, including: (i) monitoring adherence to prescribed policies; (ii) effective risk management; (iii) timely and accurate financial, operations, and regulatory reporting; (iv) safeguarding and managing assets; and (v) compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The standards also include requirements that: (i) those performing internal audits be qualified and independent; (ii) internal controls and information systems be tested and reviewed; (iii) corrective actions be adequately documented; and (iv) that results of an audit be made available for review of management actions.

USA PATRIOT ACT

On October 26, 2001, the President signed into law comprehensive anti-terrorism legislation known as the USA Patriot Act of 2001. Title III of the USA Patriot Act requires financial institutions, including the bank, to help prevent, detect and prosecute international money laundering and the financing of terrorism. The principal provisions of Title III of the USA Patriot Act require that regulated financial institutions, including the bank: (i) establish an anti-money laundering program that includes training and audit components; (ii) comply with regulations regarding the verification of the identity of any person seeking to open an account; (iii) take additional required precautions with non-U.S. owned accounts; and (iv) in certain circumstances, prohibit the maintenance of correspondent accounts with foreign banks that do not have a physical presence in the U.S. The USA Patriot Act also expanded the conditions under which funds in a U.S. interbank account may be subject to forfeiture and increased penalties for violation of anti-money laundering regulations. Failure of a financial institution to comply with the USA Patriot Act's requirements could have serious legal and reputational consequences for the institution. The bank has adopted policies, procedures and controls to address compliance with the requirements of the USA Patriot Act under the existing regulations and will continue to revise and update its policies, procedures and controls to reflect changes required by the USA Patriot Act and implementing regulations.

Consequently, changes in conditions in the next twelve months could result in future provisions for loan losses varying from the level taken in 2002.
